Senate Body Votes Broader Tax Base To Net $350,000,000

$750 Exemption for Single Person and $1,500 for Married, Proposed by Finance Committee.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Striving to increase the record-breaking $3,236,700,000 house-approved tax bill still further, the Senate Finance Committee voted today to raise an estimated $350,000,000 of additional revenue by broadening the income tax base and changing the existing law governing the so-called "community property" returns.

F. D. R. Vetoes Bill To Freeze Wheat, Cotton

Arbitrary Holding of Stocks Called Contrary to Best Interests.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Roosevelt vetoed today a measure prohibiting the government from marketing its loan stocks of 6,000,000 bales of cotton and nearly 300,000,000 bushels of wheat until authorized by congress.

Farm-minded members had pushed the bill through congress with the design of assuring cotton and wheat farmers higher prices for their crops this year. They contended that the possibility of release of these stocks had a depressing effect on the market. One of this group, Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, accused administration officials of "breaking the cotton market" by talking of releasing stocks.

But Mr. Roosevelt declared that "in my judgment, this bill is contrary to sound governmental policy and the long-time best interests of both farmers and consumers."

He went on to say that "in times such as these no one can foresee how soon these government-owned stocks may be needed" and added:

"The goal of the administration's agricultural policy has been parity prices for the farmers, and this has been accepted by the producers, the consumers and the congress as fair and reasonable. I do not feel that farmers would wish this acceptance destroyed by action designed to force prices above parity through the arbitrary withholding of government-owned stocks from the normal channels of trade and commerce."

Parity is the price at which a farm commodity has the same purchasing power in terms of things farmers buy as it had in the 1909-14 period.

Cotton parity is figured by the Agricultural Department now as about 16.49 cents a pound and wheat parity as about $1.18 a bushel.

The President's veto caused a

Soldier Blue in Search of Woo Tosses Note—Now He's in Stew

CAMP BLANDING, Fla., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Private "Pop" Johnson, of Company D, 167th Infantry, tossed a yoo hoo note from a convey in the hope that a pretty girl would retrieve it. It read:

"I'm just a soldier, lonesome and blue."

"You write to me and I'll write to you."

When he arrived at his destination, he found this written reply:

"I received your note and, since you're blue, 'Here's two weeks' K. P. cheer for you."

It was signed by Lieutenant Colonel James A. Webb, commander of the 167th Infantry.

IRAN'S LIFELINE LIES EXPOSED—British and Russian troops, invading Iran yesterday, have as one of their most important responsibilities the protection from German destruction of oil pipelines swinging through the mountains of the wealthy oil kingdom. The British have a big stake in the Persian oil fields, intend also to join lines with Russia to defend the Caucasian fields of the U. S. S. R. from German invasion.

State Prisons Best Governor Has Ever Seen

Legislative Committee On Tour of Georgia Institutions.

By LUKE GREENE.

Although the legislative penitentiary committee is now in the midst of an investigation of Georgia's penal system and is not expected to report its findings until next week, the Governor declared yesterday at his daily press conference, "We've got the best prison system I ever saw."

Just a few minutes before he made this statement, the chief executive conferred briefly with members of the legislative committee who then departed for a tour of south Georgia prison camps.

The Governor's statement aroused considerable interest as to what the committee's report will contain. Last week he clamped a censorship over the committee by instructing its members not to give out their findings to newspapermen until they had completed their investigation and made their full report to him.

Since that time the committee-men have been holding conferences with the chief executive and following his instructions to the letter. Although they previously had been talkative about their investigation and had been making broad recommendations, they now refuse to comment on the probable tenor of their report.

In declaring yesterday that Georgia had a prison system which might well be copied by other states, the Governor explained he had visited Taztnall prison at Reidsville Sunday.

He said he was informed by the prison superintendent, R. H. Lawrence, that if the institution could get the state's printing and terra cotta contracts, it would soon be self-supporting. The prison now requires an appropriation of approximately $200,000 per year for operating expenses.

The Governor said the prison farm this year would produce 150 bales of cotton, 60,000 bushels of corn and already had approximately 30,000 bushels of oats threshed. In addition, he said, it had enough beef, hogs and dairy products to last through the winter.

In his praise of the Georgia prison system, the Governor was asked if he meant to include such camps as the Rising Fawn highway camp, where a warden was fired for placing 22 Negro prisoners, one of whom died, in a sweat box.

Direct Routing Asked To Ease Gas Crisis

County Rebuffs LeCraw on Closing Plea; Independent Operator Denies Shortage Exists.

Developments yesterday in the campaign to curtail gas consumption in the face of an emergency brought on by lack of tanker transportation were:

1—Frank Gleason, freight traffic agent, announced that 10 per cent more tank car space could be made available by more direct routing of tank cars.

2—Mayor LeCraw got nowhere in a plea to the county commissioners to require the Sunday closing of filling stations in the county as a protection to Atlanta operators who have to close by city ordinance.

3—Grady L. Clark, independent oil operator, told Mayor LeCraw and city council that the recent closing ordinance was "railroaded" through, and that there was no gasoline shortage. He had 100,000 gallons in storage, he said, and he had trucks and tank cars rolling daily to his source of supply.

Gleason, pointing out that tank cars are now routed by circuitous routes to their destination, urged an I. C. C. order requiring their routing direct. This, he said, would increase carrying capacity by 10 per cent.

He also urged that rail carriers be instructed to return empty tank cars by the first available through train, and not as fill-in tonnage on locals as sometimes they are now handled.

He recommended also that demurrage charges be increased to force more prompt unloading of cars at their destination, urged a system of credit whereby independents could get their supply without waiting for bills of lading to reach the bank, and that filling stations within 200 miles of seaport bulk stations receive their supplies only by truck.

Mayor LeCraw in his plea to the county commissioners got the same answer received by the filling station operators last week.

"Fulton county," said Commissioner Troy Chastain, "is not going to ask its filling station operators to close up when gasoline can be bought from stations in adjoining counties."

LeCraw told the commissioners

Governor Refuses To Grant Hamilton Traveling Expenses

The Governor yesterday took his second swing at State Treasurer George B. Hamilton during the present administration by declining to approve $300 traveling expenses for Hamilton to attend a national convention in New Hampshire.

In a previous administration Hamilton was thrown out of office by the Governor's National Guardsmen. The Governor continued to wield the whip when he came in for a third term by having the legislature enact a law giving him the power to fire the state treasurer and comptroller general for cause, and by removing Hamilton as chairman of the housing authority.

Although the chief executive had approved traveling expenses for one official to travel across the continent for a similar convention, he quickly denied Ham-

U. S. Cuts Term Of Habinyak To Three Years

Verdict Rendered With Unusual Speed by War Department.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP) Acting with unusual speed, the War Department today slashed Private John Habinyak's sentence for insubordination from 10 years and nine months to three years.

Robert P. Patterson, acting secretary of war, reduced the court-martial sentence less than three days after the verdict was taken under consideration by a special board of review in the judge advocate general's department.

The original sentence, criticized both in congress and by the public for its severity, had "amazed" veteran officials in the War Department and its modification had been predicted freely. Army sources said the sentence was the maximum possible and rarely had been imposed.

Officials said that if Habinyak's prison behavior is good, he will be released in 30 months—the maximum military service provided for draftees by the revised selective service law.

Inducted last June 23, Habinyak was assigned to the First Field Artillery training regiment at Fort Bragg, N. C., and by July 4, he was in trouble with his superior officers for refusal to clean his mess kit.

A report of the court-martial quoted the prisoner as saying, in explanation of his conduct, that he had earned $10 a day in civilian life and was not going to work in the Army for $21 a month.

Allies Take Initiative Over Most of World As Struggle Spreads

Persia Assured of Withdrawal When Nation Is Secure, Axis Intrigues Are Destroyed.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. British and Russian troops invading Iran (Persia) moved last night toward their first juncture of this war—a union that will establish an Allied line to Russia from the Persian Gulf, put imperial forces in position to help defend the Soviet Caucasus and complete a Middle Eastern wall against the Nazis from the Baltic to the Arabian Sea.

They smashed into Iran—the British eastward from Iraq and northeastward from the Gulf and the Russians southward from the Caucasian frontier—with the avowed purpose of making an end to the Axis intrigues of German agents in that ancient land, and with every assurance that they had no design upon Iranian territory or independence.

They promised to withdraw the moment the country was made secure against the Nazis.

Resistance Futile. The inconsiderable Army of the Shah, a mere 180,000 men, offered immediate resistance of a quality and extent not precisely ascertained—a resistance which, of course, was futile and might not have been primarily for form and the record.

The Iran radio broadcast last night a statement by Premier Ali Mansur to the parliament that late reports indicated the British had attacked Iranian ships in harbor and had shelled Iranian towns.

The Germans were clearly angry and concerned at the Allied coup, which will make possible a form of British aid to the Soviet vastly more powerful than anything given heretofore, and the Berlin press alleged that the United States had given the invaders material and moral support.

Turkey Watched. German officials declined to say whether a counter-measure would be attempted—and it was plain that there was little or nothing they could do directly—and anxiously watched to see what, if anything, Turkey, a nonbelligerent British ally, would do.

The British were under command of General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, directing operations from Simla.

The first major landing made by Wavell's desert troops was at Bandar Shapur, at Iran's extreme west at the head of the gulf, and it was stated authoritatively:

"That, of course, is not the sole point of entry."

Indian mechanized forces operating under cover of heavy RAF squadrons were at the head of the British advance.

In Baluchistan, bordering Iran on the southeast, other imperial troops were in action along the frontier.

The Soviet forces were marching.

Three Fast-Talking Germans Cope With Nazi Radio Kibitzer

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The German radio used three fast-talking news announcers in place of one to-night and kept a mystery kibitzer of the air from getting a word in edgewise.

Recently the kibitzer, speaking on the same wavelength as the German domestic programs, has scolded the Reich with such statements as "this is all lies" whenever the German announcer paused between items.

In the 9 o'clock news broadcast in Germany tonight, however, London listeners heard three separate announcers read so rapidly and without intervals between items that it was almost impossible to understand them. Loud, martial music drowned out the final words of the program.

U.S., Japan Still Far Apart Despite Exploratory Talks, Hull Hints

Pacific Issues Must Be Met On Principles

Statement Indicates No Concessions Will Be Made.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP) The United States and Japan appeared tonight to be far from any general settlement of their long-standing differences after a series of informal conversations in Washington and Tokyo.

Secretary of State Hull indicated that these talks still were only exploratory and said that any discussions regarding settlement of issues in the Pacific or any other areas rested essentially on the fundamental principles and policies which the United States long had advocated and practiced.

Hull's comment, made in apparent explanation of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's reference to the Far East in his address yesterday, was interpreted to mean that the United States was unwilling to make any concessions in its fundamental policies in order to reach a general settlement with Japan.

Efforts For Peace.

Churchill had declared that "every effort will be made to secure a peaceful settlement" with Japan and that the United States was "laboring with infinite patience to arrive at a fair and amicable settlement which will give Japan the utmost assurance for her legitimate interests."

He expressed the hope that "these negotiations will succeed," but said that if they failed "we shall, of course, range ourselves unhesitatingly at the side of the United States." Hull declined to comment on specific points in Churchill's speech but asserted that he was always glad to pay the highest tribute to what he called the remarkable addresses of the prime minister.

The speech, however, drew sharp criticism from Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, who said in a statement that it was "directed to persuading the American people that they should go to war at England's side."

Churchill's Assumption.

Taft said the speech indicated that, in Churchill's mind, President Roosevelt had pledged the United States to go to war.

"To him (Churchill) the essential point of the pledge is that the United States and Great Britain effectively will disarm the guilty nations while remaining suitably protected themselves," said Taft.

"Who is going to disarm Japan or indeed Germany, except the United States?" Taft asked. "And how are they going to do it without going to war? What right has the President without the consent of Congress to pledge the United States to go to war? Or is he fooling Churchill?"

Secretary Hull commented on the British-Russian invasion of Iran only to say that the one and THEY'RE FIGHTERS BOTH—One of Iran's soldiers (left) in modern uniform, stands with a warrior (right) of the old army, dressed not far differently than might have those ancient Persians who fought the Mongols. dip in prices of cotton and wheat on commodity markets, but they quickly rallied. Cotton closed unchanged to 3 cents off on the New York market with spot middling at 16.94 cents a pound, unchanged. Wheat closed unchanged to 3-8 cents a bushel higher at Chicago with September deliveries at $1.12.

In addition to his criticism of the bill's general aim, the President objected also to a section which would have permitted farmers to grow wheat in excess of their farm acreage allotments for 1941, provided they use it as seed on the farm.

"This provision," the President said, "would place a premium on noncompliance with the wheat program, constitute a breach of faith with the large majority of farmers who complied with the program, and so relax the control features of the farm program as to adversely affect future participation therein."

LINDER ASKS FARMERS TO HOLD COTTON

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder yesterday broadcast an appeal to Georgia farmers to hold their cotton from the market and put it in the government loan in order to boost prices.

Linder's plan to provide actual immediate question involved related to the conflict between Germany on the one hand and the British, Russians and others on the other hand.

The Iran minister, Mohammed Schayesteh, denied the British-Russian charges that there are large numbers of German agents in Iran. He said these charges were a mere pretext.

Lions May Entertain Soldiers at Sparta

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

SPARTA, Ga., Aug. 25.—Members of the Sparta Lions Club are planning to have this city join the others of middle Georgia in entertaining some of the soldiers stationed at Camp Wheeler, near Macon. The matter was discussed at their meeting last week and a committee was named, headed by M. G. Pound, to investigate the plan and he has called on a committee to be headed by Mrs. James H. Price to furnish entertainment.

It is the plan of the Lions to invite the soldiers who have been sent to Camp Wheeler from distant states and show them real southern hospitality.

The date for the entertainment will likely be set at the meeting of the club this week. Herbert Rountree is president of the club.

3d District Dentists Meet at Montezuma

MONTZUMA, Ga., Aug. 25.—A meeting of the Third District Dental Association was held at the clubhouse at Montezuma Thursday, Dr. Eli Garrett, of Butler, president of the association, presiding.

Fifteen delegates from all sections of the district attended the meeting, which featured a dental clinic by Dr. M. O. Turntine, of Columbus.

Local dentists who were hosts to the gathering were Dr. R. H. Saunders and Dr. W. H. Banks.

Official Denied Travel Money By Talmadge

Authority, the Governor succeeded him. Although there was no announcement from the Governor's office, it developed yesterday that the United States Housing Authority had allocated an additional $750,000 for the benefit of rural housing in 15 central Georgia counties.

Reports were circulated that Hamilton had been instrumental in getting these funds, and when asked about the allocation he confirmed the reports.

"Even though I was not officially connected with housing any longer, because I was interested in the program which I initiated, I am delighted I have been able to get the United States Housing Authority in Washington to allocate $750,000 additional monies which will give rural housing projects to these counties in central Georgia."

Scheduled to receive $50,000 each from the federal agency are the counties of Barrow, Oconee, Walton, Morgan, Putnam, Jasper, Newton, Rockdale, Clayton, Henry, Butts, Monroe, Upson, Spalding and Fayette. Jones and Greene counties, which already have received their allocations, will be included in the same rural housing district.

Rotary Club To Hear Governor Guy Wells

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., Aug. 25. Guy H. Wells, district governor of the Rotary Clubs in Georgia, will attend the regular meeting of the Summerville-Tifton Rotary Club Wednesday in his capacity of district governor.

Oscar L. Cleckler, president of the Summerville-Tifton Club, says that Governor Wells will advise and assist the officers and committeemen of the club on administrative matters and on matters pertaining to Rotary service activities of the club.

Other States Asked To Hunt Turner

State police are convinced Forrest Turner and "Slim" Scarborough, notorious holdup men and escape artists, who escaped from the Dallas, Ga., prison two weeks ago, have left Georgia and have advised police in neighboring states to be on the lookout for the pair. Commissioner of Public Safety John E. Goodwin said yesterday.

Men thought to have been Turner and Scarborough, or others of the seven who escaped, were chased on two occasions last week, but eluded officers in automobiles.

Local men have been taken off the case until some further clue as to the whereabouts of the fugitives is obtained, Goodwin said.

Cannery at Valdosta To Continue Operation

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 25.—J. W. Holloway and George Putnam, who are in charge of the new cannery plant here, are preparing for the next major crop when the present contract to can peaches for the government is completed early in September.

Turnip greens will be the next crop, to be followed by sweet potatoes. Contracts for growing turnips are now being offered growers and it is expected that a large acreage will be planted on these contracts on assured prices.

Since starting on the peach contract with the government three weeks ago, an average of 12 carloads a day have been canned and stored in the company's warehouse to be shipped to England as ordered.

Pickens County Farmer, W. L. Bruce, Succumbs

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

JASPER, Ga., Aug. 25.—W. L. Bruce, 61, one of Pickens county's most prominent farmers, died at his home near here Monday morning.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Julia Belle; two sons, Clyde and Rembert; of Jasper; six sisters, Mrs. Albert Taylor, of Cartersville; Mrs. Bob Moss, of Sylva, Ala.; Mrs. James Henderson and Mrs. L. B. Landrum, of Adairsville; Mrs. W. L. Bryant and Mrs. W. T. Bradley, of Jasper; four brothers, C. V., of Jasper; John A., of Calhoun; D. H., of Fort Valley, and James A., of Cleburne, Tex.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p. m., Tuesday, Eastern Standard time, at Jerusalem Baptist church. Interment will be in the church yard.

Many Terrell Farmers To Attend Tifton Event

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 25.—More than 100 Terrell county farmers are expected to attend the Livestock and Pasture Field day at the Coastal Plains Experiment station at Tifton Wednesday, August 27. The delegation is scheduled to leave from the Terrell county courthouse here Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock and meet at the auditorium at the experiment station at Tifton about 10 o'clock.

Dallas Spurlock, Terrell county's agricultural agent, probably will head the delegation from this county.

REDS TAKE THE HIGHROAD—The Russians must chug along such narrow, winding roads as this to reach their objective in the joint Soviet-British invasion of Iran. This mountainous terrain lies between Tabriz, immediate goal of the Reds, and Teheran, the Persian capital.

British, Reds Push Into Iran

ing through the harsh mountain passes west of the Caspian sea toward the important northern Iranian city of Tabriz as their first major objective.

(The Germans broadcast an early report that "clashes already have been reported from the Caucasian border.")

(They also asserted that Tabriz had been bombed with resultant damage and casualties.)

An immediate and urgent British assignment was to prevent possible destruction by German agents of Iran's pipeline and oil fields.

The Russians acted to secure the southern frontiers against what Moscow's officials stated declared were conspiratorial efforts by the Germans to provoke hostile action by Iran.

The Soviet pointed to a treaty of 1921 as giving it the rights to send troops into Iranian territory for "the purpose of self-defense."

This dynamic development in British-Russian war policy came on a day that saw the Allies take the initiative over much of the world.

Novgorod Abandoned.

Information available during yesterday had indicated, moreover, that the Red armies were at least breaking even with the invading Nazis, but the Soviet command's communique for this morning acknowledged a substantial reversal about 100 miles below Leningrad.

Here, it was stated, Russian troops had abandoned Novgorod, after losing the city to the Germans and the Germans thus had reached within 35 miles of the Moscow-Leningrad railway.

The British radio quoted a Moscow broadcast as saying Nazi forces are at the approaches to the fortress of Leningrad and, aware of the danger, the Russians will be fighting at every street corner in the city so that the "Fascists will never pass."

The broadcast was heard in New York by NBC.

Along all the remainder of the front, Moscow said, the Soviet armies continued their stubborn fight.

Russian reports stated that rain had been falling heavily at the front for the last 24 hours. It was said that roads other than main routes already were bogged and that more rain would make impassable both the soft soil of the Ukraine and the marshy country around Leningrad.

Central Front Active.

The reports of both belligerents indicated that the heaviest action was in the central theater, where the Reds held the initiative in counter-attacks which Moscow claimed yesterday were materially pushing the invaders back and which Berlin insisted to the contrary had been broken with enormous Russian losses.

Germans said last night that their troops on the central front had blocked a three-day Russian counter-attack in which Red army waves charged repeatedly and without regard to losses.

The Russian central front counter-attack was described as having developed in two parallel drives, one using mainly big tanks and the second, in an adjoining sector, by mixed tanks and infantry. The Germans claimed the Russians lost 123 tanks in the two assaults.

The Nazi high command itself said mere "operations in the east are making good progress everywhere," giving no specific information of any sector.

Most Important Yet.

The Soviet counter-offensive at the center was between Gomel and Smolensk. It was described by the British as the most important yet loosed by the defenders against the German flanking maneuver against the Russian east bank defenses along the lower Dnieper in the Ukraine.

Soviet war bulletins for yesterday afternoon pictured the fighting as continuing in familiar areas:

About Leningrad, in the Novgorod area 100 miles to the south and near Kakisalmi 65 miles to the north.

Before the great Red industrial center of Dniepropetrovsk, where a bridgehead on the western bank of the Dnieper was declared still in Russian hands and where the Soviet forces were said to be at the counter-attack.

At encircled Odessa on the Black sea, where at least four German-allied Rumanian divisions were claimed by Moscow to have been annihilated.

Soviet naval forces were reported in the last 24 hours to have sunk a German submarine in the Black sea and two of four Nazi troop and supply transports in the Baltic.

Finns Claim Islands.

The Finns, whose troops are carrying the brunt of the southward thrust upon Leningrad, asserted that 10 Russian warships, tankers and transports had been sunk in recent naval battles in the Gulf of Finland, and claimed the occupation of the islands of Viipuri, which are 40 miles west of Viipuri (Viborg), a present major objective of Finnish troops.

The Finns said seizure of the islands, ceded to Russia in the peace treaty of 1940, silenced big Soviet guns which had been harassing Finnish troops on the mainland, and tightened the ring of steel being drawn about Viipuri.

One of the transports sunk, a 5,000-tonner, was said to have been jammed with Red army troops and war materials.

On the islands themselves, which lie just off the mainland in the Gulf of Finland near the entrance to Viipuri bay, the Finns reported the capture of numerous heavy coastal batteries, ammunition and sea-going vessels.

By land, meanwhile, Finnish troops were reported approaching the gates of Viipuri, once Finland's second city which the Russians also gained in the peace of 1940.

Direct Routing Urged To Ease Gasoline Crisis

the Atlanta stations closed on Sunday and that the only drivers who went outside to buy gas were "a bunch of chiselers who should not be sold gas anyway."

Glor Hailley, commissioner named by the state to handle the matter for the county, said that he will confer this week with the Governor, Scott Candler, DeKalb county commissioner, and Mayor LeCraw.

Clark Criticizes Methods.

The mayor asked the commission to pass a resolution requesting the Fulton filling station operators to close on Sunday. The legal department said it was all right to pass the resolution, but there was no law that would require operators to obey it.

Grady Clark, head of Clark Oil Company and operator of five filling stations, said that "the city is trying to resort to dictatorial methods to cram something down people's throats that is entirely unwarranted."

"I have over 100,000 gallons on hand and I have trucks and tank cars rolling daily to my source of supply. Several other companies have assured me they have plenty of gasoline and transportation. If there is plenty of fuel in Atlanta, and plenty of transportation, why should the people of Georgia be the victims of propaganda?"

Vidalia Kiwanis Club To Meet at Mt. Vernon

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

VIDALIA, Ga., Aug. 25.—The Vidalia Kiwanis Club will hold the regular weekly luncheon Tuesday night at Mt. Vernon, where a barbecued chicken supper will be served by half the membership, while the other half will act as hosts.

An attendance contest just concluded entitles a committee headed by the Rev. M. E. Peavy to the free supper which is to be furnished by another committee headed by Hugh Thompson.

Leon Oliver, president, will be in charge of the program.

HARTWELL, Ga., Aug. 25.—Hart county's first bale of cotton for the 1941 season was brought in Thursday morning by Holman Milford, well-known farmer of the Oak Bower community, and was given by R. C. Temple, who also bought the bale for 20 cents a pound.

The bale and seed brought Milford $121.60.

Lamar Court Term Will Be Postponed

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 25.—The September term of superior court, in Lamar county, will be postponed, the date to be announced later, according to announcement by M. P. Owen, clerk.

Advices from Judge Ogden Persons, who is in Hot Springs, Ark., stated that he expects to return home soon and will set a definite time for the postponed term.

Judge Persons is improving in health, he states.

A light docket of civil cases, with slightly more on the criminal calendar for the second week, awaits the court.

Georgia Sales Of Tobacco Far Below '40 Crop

Incomplete Report Says 42,016,000 Lbs. Sold for $8,628,000.

A high price failed to overcome a short crop in putting money in the pockets of Georgia's tobacco growers, preliminary figures on this year's sales indicated yesterday.

The State Department of Agriculture, reporting on 11 of the state's 15 market centers, announced that 42,016,702 pounds of the golden leaf were auctioned off before the Georgia warehouses closed last week. The tobacco sold for $8,628,444.60, or an average of 20.54 cents a pound.

This compared with sales in Georgia last year of 79,246,276 pounds of tobacco for $12,360,574.26, or an average of 15.60c.

Incomplete markets were Blackshear, Statesboro, Vidalia and Waycross. These probably will add at least 10,000,000 pounds to this year's total.

Final figures on this year's sales, with the price average computed by the Associated Press, follow for each market from which complete reports were received by the department:

Terrell Farmers Get Parity Checks, Stamps

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 25.—Subsidy checks or parity payments for Terrell county cotton farmers who planted within their cotton acreage allotment have been received for 891 farmers covering 312 farms and totaling $39,962, according to announcement by Frank Smith, county administrative officer. Smith stated that approximately $85,000 in subsidy payments are expected in all.

Cotton stamps aggregating $7,000 have already been distributed to Terrell county farmers, Smith said. This is about one-third the amount expected to be released.

RATIONS—Dr. H. L. Turner, left, and Toulman Hurt, right, Rotary Club officials, munch mouthfuls of bread given to them by Brigadier General James L. Frink, Quartermaster of the Fourth Corps Area, as evidence of the wholesome food the Army is feeding to its men. The bread came from the Army's bakery, and is part of an order on its way to supplement other foodstuffs supplied to the boys in the service.

General Tells State Employees' Pay Roll Low Rotary Club Per Capita, Auditor Reports Of Cotton Use $40,000,000 Value Is Placed on Amount Used by Corps.

Cotton used by the Quartermaster Corps during 1940 and 1941 required 1,460,000 acres to produce and was valued at $40,000,000, Brigadier General James L. Frink, Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster, said yesterday.

Outlining the economic effect the defense program was having on the south, he told members of the Rotary Club that 292,000 workmen were employed in one season to produce the cotton used for clothes, tents, bedding and thousands of other articles.

About 75 per cent of that amount was used during the year ending last June 30 and the remainder was used during the year before.

"You readily can convert these facts into the amount of cash that has gone into the pockets of textile mill owners and cotton brokerage houses as well as the cotton farmer, as evidence of what the Quartermaster Corps means to the south," he said.

Bread Shipped In.
Bread shipped from the big field bakery, producing a quarter of a million pounds of bread daily for soldiers now on maneuvers in Louisiana, was served at the luncheon.

The general said a great many of the 11,055 men and women employed by the Fourth Corps Area Quartermaster's Office live in the Atlanta vicinity, but added that the corps "touches every community in the Fourth Corps Area and the nation, where there is an army post or camp."

"Millions of dollars have been expended by the Quartermaster Corps for billions upon billions of feet of southern pine timber and tons and tons of steel structure for the rapidly rising camps."

Related Industries.
"Labor has found and will find new employment not only in the actual building program but also in related industries."

He said the amount of supplies handled by the corps had increased 500 per cent during the last year, the range including forage, fuel, equipment, animals, vehicles, building materials, tools, machinery and office supplies.

Economic operation of the department, he asserted, has been achieved through long-range planning.

"We are now working supply plans for the 750,000 men, most of whom will maneuver in the Carolinas beginning in October," he said, and even arranging for their 49,000 Thanksgiving turkeys.

FORSYTH PRIMARY.
FORSYTH, Ga., Aug. 25.—The city executive committee has set September 16 as the date for the city primary. Mayor L. G. Georgia's Workers List Is Lowest in United States, According to Report Made by Thrasher.

Georgia has fewer state employees, per capita, than any other state in the nation, State Auditor E. E. Thrasher, Jr., said yesterday.

His figures were based on an analysis he made of a report issued by the Federal Bureau of Census on public employment in the United States. The federal compilation used payrolls as of January 31 of this year.

From his study, Thrasher also drew the conclusion that Georgia's monthly payroll of 23 cents per capita was tied for lowest with Mississippi and Tennessee.

The report showed that Georgia had 6,789 state employees, full and part time. This was a ratio of one for every 460 citizens. Thrasher computed the average for all states was one employee to every 239 citizens.

Next to Georgia in the fewest state employees per capita were Alabama, Tennessee and Wisconsin, with one to each 453, 432 and 411 respectively. Rhode Island represented the opposite extreme, with one employee to every 63 citizens. The District of Columbia was next with one to each 70 and Nevada was third with one to each 94.

The payroll average of all states was listed as 53 cents per capita compared to the average of 23 cents for Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee. Next lowest were Alabama, 24 cents; Arkansas, 25 cents; and Kentucky, 28 cents.

Highest were District of Columbia, $2.19; Nevada, $1.54; Connecticut, 83 cents; and Arizona, 82 cents.

South Carolina had one employee for every 225 citizens and a per capita monthly payroll of 39 cents. The report also showed that Georgia had 11,256 persons employed in general governmental functions in its cities and towns and 7,074 county employees. Schools, work relief and contract work were excluded in the report.

Liquor Violations Charged to Five

DeKalb county police arrested five persons for liquor violations over the weekend, it was reported yesterday.

Fred Wallace, 28, and a woman listed by police as his wife, Besie, of Clarkston, were arrested on Kelly street in Scottsdale, and eight gallons of corn whiskey taken from their car; Tom Jones and Marion Robinson, Negroes, were arrested in the rear of 1659 DeKalb avenue when police discovered 23 Negroes drinking home brew, there and found 20 bottles on the premises, and a mar. listed as Goldie Mitchell, of Stone Mountain, was arrested and made bond, when police found 38 pints of whiskey at his place.

Shops in Bessemer Resume Operation

BESSEMER, Ala., Aug. 25.—(INS).—A plea of the National Mediation Board tonight had brought about a resumption of work at the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Company.

Striking steel workers, members of the CIO organizing committee, agreed to return to their jobs after remaining idle several days in protest to the discharge of several workers, and in an effort to obtain a union contract.

$20,000 of Police Relief Savings To Go for Bonds

The Atlanta Police Relief Association did its part for national defense yesterday.

At a special meeting members voted unanimously to invest the association's accumulated cash, totaling $20,000, in national defense bonds. G. Neal Ellis, president, and Bob Elliott, secretary and treasurer, were instructed to buy the bonds as soon as possible.

Boll Weevils Destroy Half of Cotton Crop

Boll weevils, banqueting on millions of dollars worth of the south's principal crop, are chewing up more cotton this year than in the past decade.

From 40 to 50 per cent of Georgia's crop has been destroyed by the pest, State Entomologist J. A. Girardeau said yesterday. Arkansas and Louisiana agricultural departments said weevil infestation was the heaviest in 15 years and Texas cotton growers reported destruction was considerably heavier than in recent years.

Arrest of 65 Cattle Theft Suspects Listed

The Georgia State Patrol has arrested 65 suspected cattle rustlers and one chicken thief in the last two months, and has already obtained 15 convictions, Commissioner of Public Safety John E. Goodwin reported yesterday.

A state trooper, Eugene Burke, working with 10 officers from the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, broke up two rings of rustlers—one in Florida and one in Georgia, Goodwin said.

The Georgia rustlers, in using trucks, took the livestock in this state and carried it across the Florida line to be sold. Then before returning they would steal Florida stock and bring them into this state, he added. Florida rustlers also used the same "streamlined" method.

The "clean-up" drive on cattle rustling has even caused gun-play between officers and suspects. A trooper surprised two men attempting to take cattle from the Governor's farm near Forsyth several weeks ago, and several shots were exchanged before the suspects fled.

The officers work in pairs. It was said, and the 10 investigators have been added to the staff of the investigation bureau specifically to catch chicken and cattle thieves.

2 Retail Beer Licenses Are Revoked in State

Charging that disorderly conditions "were allowed to exist," Jack M. Forrester, state revenue commissioner, yesterday announced the revocation of the retail beer licenses held by operators of two Georgia establishments.

The licenses for the two places, one of them located near Mill-edgeville and the other near Savannah, were revoked in line with a state-wide "clean-up or close-up" campaign, Forrester said. Warning letters have been sent to retail operators in the areas of all Army camps in the state, according to Judge John S. Wood, state director of the Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee of Georgia.

About 1,750 prehistoric skeletons have been unearthed in Kentucky by the University of Kentucky state-wide WPA archaeological project established in 1937.

Reinforcements Swarm Into Singapore

Great Convoy Stresses Effort To Stop Japan

Malayan Bases Strongly Manned by Indian Troops, RAF.

SINGAPORE, Aug. 25.—(P)—Strong RAF groups, Indian infantry and artillery units and a 306-man medical detachment landed today to reinforce Britain's already formidable Malayan bases, emphasizing a declaration of Prime Minister Churchill that Japanese aggression "has got to stop."

The largest single body of Royal Air Force personnel to arrive in more than a year poured down the gangplanks of this equatorial naval bastion to help man the empire's expanding string of bomber and fighter bases in the Far East.

Indian troops were landed at strategic points upon the narrow Malayan peninsula between the Bay of Bengal and the Gulf of Siam to the north, the land bridge between Singapore and the Asiatic continent which Japan regards as in her sphere of influence.

The debarkation scenes, reminiscent of the landing of an Australian expeditionary force many thousands strong last February 18 and later arrival of other Australian and RAF detachments, came only a few hours after a radio broadcast by Prime Minister Churchill pledging that Britain would support the United States if efforts failed "to secure a peaceful settlement."

Churchill criticized the Japanese for the five-year "China incident." "They snatch Indo-China from the wretched Vichy French," he said. "They menace by their movements Siam (Thailand, which has a land frontier with Malaya). They menace the Singapore British line with Australia and menace the Philippine islands, which are under the protection of the United States."

One great liner docked here after a 10,000-mile voyage from the United Kingdom. The newcomers included Australian airmen from the Middle East.

Accompanying the troops ships most of the way was a force of war craft so powerful that one flyer declared "I bet old Winston didn't have a better escort when he went to meet Roosevelt."

The report also showed that Georgia had 11,256 persons employed in general governmental functions in its cities and towns and 7,074 county employees. Schools, work relief and contract work were excluded in the report.

Japanese Defy British To Halt Drive to South

TOKYO, Tuesday, Aug. 26.—(P)—The Japanese charged today that Prime Minister Churchill lied about British and United States efforts to keep peace with Japan, and defiantly declared nothing would halt the southward course of the Asiatic empire.

The entire press attacked Churchill's promise of aid to the United States if attempts to stop Japan's expansion were not accomplished peacefully.

The conservative newspaper Nichi said that instead of trying to keep peace, Britain and the United States were disturbing the peace of Asia by aiding the Chiang Kai-shek regime.

"Britain must terminate her anti-Japanese activities immediately," the paper said.

ately, Japan is determined to eliminate all obstacles to her southward advance.

"Japan does not hesitate to meet any opposition."

In an apparently inspired story the Domei agency represented Churchill's broadcast yesterday as based on a misinterpretation of the facts. It said Japan had the "full co-operation" of China (the puppet Wang Ching-Wei regime) in reconstruction, that Indo-China was not taken by force because there was an agreement with Vichy, and that Japan had not ever, expressed confidence of the government that any settlement would be within the framework of the nine-power treaty pledging respect for Chinese territory and sovereignty.

Two newspapers, Hochi and the militaristic Kokumin, tied up comments on the Churchill speech with criticism of Admiral Kichis-aburo Nomura, Japanese ambassador to Washington, for telling correspondents in Washington Saturday that the gap in policy between the United States and Japan might be bridged.

ASIATIC APPEASEMENT FEARED BY CHINA

CHUNGKING, Tuesday, Aug. 26.—(P)—Prime Minister Churchill's disclosure that the United States was trying to obtain a settlement with Japan stirred Chinese fears of an Asiatic appeasement, possibly at China's expense.

Authoritative statements, however, expressed confidence of the government that any settlement would be within the framework of the nine-power treaty pledging respect for Chinese territory and sovereignty.

Ramspeck Asks 'Adjustments' In Federal Pay

Georgia Congressman Addresses Post Office Body in Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—(P)—Representative Robert Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, chairman of the house civil service committee, advocated salary adjustments for federal employees today in order to help them meet rising costs of living.

Ramspeck, addressing the 37th biennial convention of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks, said government workers lacked the privilege of collective bargaining and that steps should be taken in their behalf to "relieve the cost of living pressure with some flat increases in salaries."

"No group of government employees—I don't care whether it is federal, state, city or county—has any right to strike," Ramspeck said. "Any group that interferes with the preparation of our national defense is going to be whipped."

'Lasting' Peace After This War Seen by Banker

P. D. Houston Addresses Convention Here of Garment Industry.

Hope for a more permanent peace emerging from this war than the last one was extended by P. D. Houston, of Nashville, Tenn., president of the American Bankers' Association, yesterday in the opening speech of the Southern Garment Industry's annual four-day convention at the Biltmore hotel.

Speaking to men who are engaged in governing the south's "all-out" effort to clothe the Army, Houston said:

"The democracies have a much more realistic point of view this time. They have learned the lessons taught by post-war follies and they are more intelligent about the next post-war world they want to create.

"Besides, there are fewer of them—really only two," he added. "The last time France, Italy and England each had a selfish interest to serve at the peace conference and the interest of each was exploited by the smaller nations."

France and Italy, he pointed out, will have little or no voice at the peace table.

Indirectly referring to the recent historic meeting of Roosevelt and Churchill at which the famous "eight points" were expounded, Houston said:

"Great Britain and the United States are jointly committed to an intelligent and humane program under which all nations will have equal economic opportunity as the basis of peace.

"With German militarism again destroyed and common purpose rather than conflicting interest prevailing at the peace table, I believe we shall see the foundation laid for a prosperous and happy world."

Meanwhile, he urged every citizen to do his utmost to further national defense, commending the southern garment industry for the way it has sacrificed personal gain to turn out the millions of uniforms necessary for the Army.

Veren Speaks.

Also looking ahead to a post-war America, William J. Veren, president of the Southern Garment Association, urged that the controls over industry necessary at this time be removed after the national emergency has expired, and that representatives from the industries now affected by them have a say in their administration.

"Legislation should be enacted which will guarantee those who enter into co-operative plans for national defense will not later be punished under the anti-trust laws for doing what their government requested and approved," he concluded.

TEXTILE TYCOONS—H. C. Allen, president of the Atlanta Textile Club, questions William J. Veren, president of the Southern Garment Industry, on a point Veren made in his speech yesterday afternoon at the annual convention of the Southern Garment Industry at the Biltmore Hotel. Despite the fact that the garment industry is doing 50 per cent of its work on national defense orders, 200 men, some from as far away as Canada, took time to attend the four-day convention.

Bevin Criticized For Not Using Broad Powers

Thompson Says Labor Minister Understands, Favors Workers.

(This is the third of a series of articles by Miss Thompson, describing British defense activity and the relationship between management and labor in the Midlands.)

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

LONDON.—(By Wire)—The pressure of war is not only breaking down the old concepts of management and introducing much more consideration of the needs and psychology of the workers and a greater intercourse between workers and managers, but it also is modifying trade-union policies. In parliament and out of it there is much criticism of Ernest Bevin, Britain's powerful minister of labor who heads the Transport and General Workers' Union. It is said that he favors the workers, but does not use the powers granted him, which are very extensive, including the right to send workers to any part of England, amounting to labor conscription.

Bevin replies that he understands the workers and uses his powers exactly to the extent absolutely necessary, but human beings must be regarded as such and no efficiency results from a complete disregard of human factors.

Hatred of Fascism. Certainly nobody in England has a greater intention to help win this war than Bevin, or is a more ardent hater of Fascism. He is more patient with the workers than with red tape and bureaucracy. He scares some people by the complete conviction and intention that there will be a new England after the war.

If asked "What sort of new England?" he says social democracy with freedom. In such a new order of freedom he sees the trade unions playing a leading role. My own impression is that he is far from coddling the workers. He is patient in attempting to prepare them for an increased social and political responsibility.

British trade unions are miles ahead of those in the United States in this matter of the responsibility of craft unions, which really are guilds that have maintained very high standards of work for generations. To be skilled in anything admits a worker to a real aristocracy of labor based not merely on high wages, but high standards of performance.

Justice in Labor.

British labor is permeated also with simple Christian concepts of justice and decency. The role of Nonconformist religious bodies in training labor leaders is interesting though seldom stressed. But many of the best labor speakers have received an education in social literature and philosophy and training in public speaking through Nonconformist churches and lay preaching in which the power to speak so as to move audiences is developed, and social philosophy is inextricably united with Christian principles.

A man like A. V. Alexander, who entered politics by way of the Labor party and is now first lord of the admiralty, will talk for hours about his impoverished childhood in Bristol and an education that was stopped because he was compelled to go to work at the age of 13, then continued through books urged upon him by preachers.

Craft unions have had to make innumerable concessions under the stress of war production, but adjustments came with a minimum of stoppage and strain fundamentally because the war on Adolf Hitler is the workers' war, and the defense of unionism is hearty and profound in this country.

Moving of Industries.

The necessity to disperse industries away from a few centers because of the danger of being bombed and reintegrate the whole into a system whereby if one factory is knocked out the same work is continuing with an enlarged load elsewhere, created immense problems of moving, feeding and housing the workers.

Hotels had to be built for the workers, communal feeding had to be established, transportation arranged. Women workers streaming into industry because of the shortage of man power first met the hostility of both management and workers, especially in the mechanical trades where it was not believed women could operate huge mechanical lathes, etc.

However, apprehension concerning the women were absolutely confounded in practice. Many problems, it is frankly admitted, have been unsatisfactorily solved. On the other hand, there have been immense gains for labor. For instance, among the merchant sailors, who now get an annual wage and regular leaves and free transportation to their families.

Sacrifices of Workers.

The willingness of workers to make sacrifices seems to warrant putting problems up to them. For instance, the miners were asked to decide whether they would be willing to allow the use of fast, refrigerated ships, normally carrying food from the United States, for transporting troops to the middle east, which would mean a reduction of already inadequate rations.

Amidst cheers they voted unanimously to reduce the rations, which would be especially hard on miners whose work often makes them lose three to seven pounds a day in the pits. Such action also amounts to voluntary contributions from the workers for the comforts of the armed forces.

In New Castle, along one of the poorest parts of the country, miners contributed $150,000 in individual gifts.

Experts Draft Table of Taxes: Now, Proposed

Comparison of Figures Sought by Senate, House Groups.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Congressional experts tonight released this table showing taxes which would be paid by a single man with no dependents under rates approved by the Senate Finance Committee, those provided under the house-approved tax bill and those levied under existing law.

Net Income	Senate Committee	House	Present Law
$ 800	3.00	3.00	4.00
1,000	21.00	15.40	4.40
1,500	68.00	62.70	24.20
2,000	117.00	110.00	44.00
3,000	230.50	211.20	83.80
5,000	482.50	475.00	171.60
10,000	1,492.50	1,469.90	586.40
50,000	20,881.50	20,715.30	14,718.20

Here are comparative figures for a married man with no dependents:

Net Income	Senate Committee	House	Present Law
$1,500	None	None	None
2,000	12.00	8.50	30.00
3,000	37.50	30.00	110.00
10,000	1,385.00	1,166.00	528.00

Following are figures for married man with two dependents:

Net Income	Senate Committee	House	Present Law
$2,000	None	None	None
3,000	38.00	11.00	None
5,000	271.00	202.40	74.00
10,000	1,117.00	998.80	440.00

Blondes Make Iceland Marine Feel Homesick

Beautiful Assortment Brings Memories of Ol' Peachtree.

There must be a Peachtree street in or near Reykjavik, Iceland!

That's the opinion of Willis Woodall, Atlanta Marine, now stationed in Iceland. In his first letter to the folks back home since his arrival in the country with the cold name, Woodall got hot in telling about the pretty blondes there.

"We now have only four hours of darkness, and that gives me 20 hours a day in which to admire the beautiful assortment of blondes," he said in a letter received yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Woodall, 991 Delaware avenue, S. E.

Flo Ziegfeld, creator of the famous Ziegfeld follies, and James Montgomery Flagg, the artist, both nationally famous as connoisseurs of feminine beauty, agreed that the worlds prettiest girls were on Broadway, and that they came from Peachtree street, Atlanta, Georgia.

Of course, however, their statement was made long before Uncle Sam decided to establish a military base in Iceland, and maybe they never had seen an Icelandic beauty.

Paraguay Decrees 10 O'Clock Curfew

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The government decreed tonight a 10 p. m. curfew for the capital, following the arrest of a subversive plan tending to upset public order.

Only soldiers and sailors will be permitted on the streets after that hour. All civilian vehicles as well as civilians are barred.

The edict, ordered by President Higinio Morinigo, also forbade public meetings "of any nature" until further notice and banned street gatherings of more than three people.

Violators are subject to punishment under recent laws which provided the death penalty for Fifth Columnists. These laws were promulgated at the same time that neighboring Bolivia squelched an abortive push and ejected the German minister.

Chattanooga Plant Will Cost $34,245,732

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The War Department announced today award of a contract to Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, New York, for designing, constructing and procuring equipment for a TNT plant to be operated by the Hercules Powder Company at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The department estimated the plant, designated the Volunteer Ordnance Works, would cost $34,245,732, including the fixed fee to be paid the contractor.

Girl Victim of Fall Reported Fair at Grady

The condition of Miss Martha Anderson, 18, of 965 Grand avenue, Center Hill, who fell from a moving automobile early Sunday morning at Luckie street and Hemphill avenue, was reported fair last night. She is at Grady hospital suffering from cerebral concussion and a possible fractured skull.

She told a Grady physician that she fell from the car when the door suddenly flew open.

Axis Leaders To Meet Soon, Tokyo Reports

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Tokyo radio in a broadcast head tonight by NBC said the highest Axis leaders will meet within a few days to discuss political and economic co-operation of their nations and conquered territories and the general war situation.

A joint statement may be issued by Premier Mussolini and Adolf Hitler, the broadcast said.

BAPTIST TRAINING UNION MEETS—More than 700 delegates attended the initial session at the First Baptist church last night to hear discussions of teaching methods and an inspirational talk. Standing, Mrs. John G. Lewis, publicity chairman; seated, Mrs. L. W. de Jarnette, associate intermediate leader (left) and Mrs. Frank P. McElveen, associate story hour leader.

Ellis Arnall Will Address Baptist Group

700 Attend Opening Session of Training Union.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall will be the inspirational speaker tonight at the meeting of the Atlanta Association of Baptist Training Union at the First Baptist church.

More than 700 representatives of branches of the training union from Baptist churches in Atlanta and vicinity attended the initial session last night, the Fifth Avenue church of Decatur having the largest percentage of its enrollment present.

Delegates were divided into groups according to the ages of those among whom they work and heard training methods adaptable to those groups by experts.

After the classes the delegates heard an inspirational address by E. E. Lee, of Dallas, Tex., field worker of the training union.

The speaker tomorrow night will be Dr. J. B. Lawrence, of Nashville, Tenn., southside secretary of the Baptist Training Union. At the closing session Friday the speaker will be Harry Clark, superintendent of public schools in Knoxville, Tenn.

Among those present from far distant points last night was Miss Muriel David, missionary stationed at Boca Mission in Buenos Aires.

10,000 Copper Miners Granted Raise in Pay

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 25.—(AP)—A wage increase of 50 cents a day was granted more than 10,000 Arizona copper miners and smelter workers today by the state's major producers.

Harrison M. Lavender, general manager of Phelps-Dodge Corporation's Arizona properties, estimated it would mean $2,500,000 a year in additional wages.

The increase, effective September 1, was announced by Phelps-Dodge, Miami Copper Company, Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company and International Smelter.

Mayor LeCraw Speaks At Church in Acworth

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ACWORTH, Ga., Aug. 25.—Mayor Roy LeCraw, of Atlanta, an elder in the North Avenue Presbyterian church, was guest speaker at the Sunday morning service held at the Presbyterian church here. He chose "Tithing" for the subject of his message to the large congregation that was present to hear it.

L. M. Awtrey, representing the laymen of the church who were in charge of the service, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.

LaGrange Sergeant Enters Ft. Knox School

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. LAGRANGE, Ga., Aug. 25.—Among the officers entering the second half of their intensive training in the Officers' Candidate School of Armored Forces at Fort Knox, Ky., is Staff Sergeant Frank L. Brown, of LaGrange.

Upon the successful completion of the course, the group of enlistees, ranging from master sergeants to privates first class, will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the Officers' Reserve Corps, and will start immediately a year's active duty with an armored force unit.

MILLION-DOLLAR RAISE. BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Phillips Petroleum Co. announced today a wage increase for all employees averaging approximately 5 per cent and amounting to more than a million dollars a year, to be effective September 1. A similar increase was made April 1.

40-Cent Wage For 96,000 Shoe Workers Asked

Committee Approves Minimum 5 Cents Above Present.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for the shoe industry, which government officials estimated would increase the earnings of 96,000 workers, was recommended today by the Shoe Manufacturing and Allied Industries Committee.

The committee's recommendation, made after a public hearing, would represent an increase of five cents an hour over the present minimum wage, which has been in effect since April 29, 1940.

The committee suggested the new minimum be made effective November 1. Today's recommendation is subject to approval by General Philip B. Fleming, wage-hour administrator, who appointed the committee to investigate conditions in the industry and recommend a new minimum. Officials said the committee's recommendation would be submitted to Fleming probably tomorrow.

Last Rites Held For Gene Taylor

Funeral services for Eugene M. (Gene) Taylor, 32, popular advertising representative of The Constitution, who died Sunday, were held yesterday at the Kirkwood Presbyterian church, with the Rev. James Smith, the Rev. Melvin Jones and the Rev. T. F. Whitfield officiating. Burial was in the East View cemetery. Taylor, an employee of The Constitution for more than 15 years, was one of Atlanta's most popular advertising men, and many of the friends he had made in the advertising world attended the services. He was a deacon of the Kirkwood Presbyterian church, and took an active part in Kirkwood civic and religious affairs.

ATLANTA, GA., AUGUST 26, 1941.

The Greater Good

An insurance executive warned that gasoline rationing by individual motorists would lead to hoarding and result in a greater fire menace. He foresees a situation in which individuals would store in cans and makeshift containers gasoline rations not used within the ration period and resultant chance of explosions and fires.

On the other hand, it is fairly evident that sooner or later an individual rationing plan will become necessary. At the same time, the country is building up a civilian defense reservoir of fire wardens and other auxiliary forces which could well be used to prevent just such a dangerous concentration of gasoline or any other inflammables by civilians or industries.

Any curtailment of individual freedom of action such as gasoline rationing is bound to result in many situations which call for action not common to American life. To be frank, there will be efforts to bootleg, there will be injustices, there will be hoarding. But to contrast the result of these necessary curtailments of individual judgment with the excesses of the prohibition period is quite ridiculous. There will be a majority agreement in the necessity for the measures, and a willingness to co-operate that is in sharp contrast to the prohibition fiasco. Intelligent co-operation will obviate excesses, and prevention of dangerous hoarding of gasoline or any other commodity should be easy through use of the civilian defense forces. The greater good should not be lost in a welter of minor, and preventable, conjured dangers.

Some calm, concentrated action is needed to develop a thoroughly logical and standard method of saving gasoline.

Just dropping the problem into the lap of a local mayor to devise and put into operation some system that he believes will be effective in his own limited territory is bound to create hopeless confusion in a country where there is so much interstate travel.

That, simply, is starting a contest where the first prize will be some gratifying publicity for the anxious official who devises the most fantastic idea. This gasoline thrift should be more than a mere stunt if the condition which created the need for it is legitimate.

No real or worth-while purpose is accomplished in one little city or one little town by officials who use this gasoline shortage in an effort to correct some local condition that has been bothering them privately for some time. This shortage is a national problem, with international complications. Mere local regulation can accomplish nothing more than an injustice against local dealers, who are forced to suffer to the advantage of their competitors just across the line, operating as they see fit.

Corporal Winthrop Rockefeller says he hasn't lost one cent at gambling in the army. One can only feel that some far-sighted sergeant is saving him for a rainy day.

"A Better Mousetrap"

It's not often that a simple application of practical psychology hits the headlines. Yet an imaginative grocer in a little town in Pennsylvania has done just that—by using a different collection method. This fellow, vowing he would wait no longer for 700 delinquent customers to pay a total of more than $20,000, applied in new and dramatic fashion an idea that had been tried before, principally in clubs and lodges.

The grocer's act was simplicity itself. He went out and, at a cost of $150, erected an eight-by-twenty-four-foot billboard on a lot in his industrial city near Pittsburgh. Then, by registered mail, he notified his bad accounts that unless they forked over, they'd be posted within 30 days on the big board, for all the world to see.

Results were immediate. Customers flocked in, obliging him to work overtime. Even some who didn't owe came in—just to be sure. Others paid on bills even the grocer himself had forgotten. Eighty-four persons, four times the first quota, have come through so far. The billboard idea was a great success.

News of the stunt got around the country, and the grocer disclosed that he had received more than 100 letters from various parts of the nation, complimenting him on his idea. Other merchants wrote that they would try it themselves, while a Missouri barber reported that a man who had owed him 75 cents for five years rushed into the place one afternoon with the money, saying, "I don't want you to do what that grocer did."

As for the grocer, what will he do with the money he collects? "I'm gonna pay my debts," he said.

Harry Hopkins in Churchill's hat is perhaps the biggest sensation in that field since a confused check girl at the League of Nations palace handed Halle Selassie the derby.

Soil Conservation

That Georgia is making progress along agricultural lines is seen in the intense interest shown in soil conservation at the meeting recently at Mossy Creek campground, in White county, where more than 700 farmers assembled for the first annual barbecue and get-together meeting of the Co-operators of the Upper Chattahoochee River Soil Conservation district, comprising the counties of Dawson, Forsyth, Habersham, Hall, White and Lumpkin.

An interesting and significant angle was that this was the first meeting of its kind in which the program was planned and carried out by the farmers themselves. Various phases of the soil conservation program were discussed by representative farmers from each county in the district. These were men who are operators themselves, many of them pioneers in the soil conservation program since its inception. The entire group took part in discussions, and much practical information was derived from men who have actually put the soil conserving practices to work in their own fields.

The meeting was sponsored by the board of supervisors of the district, and the barbecue was served through co-operation of business concerns in Gainesville and other towns of the district. All who attended called it the "most enthusiastic and informative" meeting of its kind ever held in this state.

Such gatherings are healthful, progressive signs. They are the kind of leads that can well be taken by other groups. For such meetings hold the key to the future development of this state.

This new army is pretty much like the one we remember, except that the suits are snazzier, and the Grover C.'s are now Woodrow W.'s.

"If Only Letters Too—"

An Atlantan has been sent to jail in default of $100 bond because he got irritated by stories of a debtor's prosperity.

According to the story told in United States Commissioner David J. Meyerhart's court, the man mailed a postcard to the debtor dunning him for $25 which was allegedly owed him. He said he sent the card after hearing continued reports about the financial success of the man who owed him but who did not pay.

That card got him in trouble with Uncle Sam, who has a criminal charge for just such a thing: "Mailing postcards intended to reflect injuriously on the character and condition of another."

The Atlantan entered a plea of ignorance to the law. But it did no good.

Many another Atlantan, harassed by bills at the first of each month, muttered to himself, "if only the law applied to letters, too."

It is estimated that the sheet metal taken out of one saloon moderne would build a plane or two, and possibly improve the saloon.

Anthony Eden doesn't wish to see post-war Germany "economically crushed"—but why discriminate? Is she any better than the rest of us?

Nothing new of late on the "V" campaign, except that we may get into the war via Vladivostok.

Georgia Editors Say:

THE CATTLE ARE COMING

(From The Cobb County Times.)
One has only to pick up any issue of almost any Georgia newspaper to be impressed with the amount of space given to cattle raising. And why not? Cotton's day is waning in Georgia. Yet the very lands which cotton depleted can again become rich and prosperous when turned to grazing. Gleanings from many sources show the trend. A folder comes to the Times office telling about the marvels of Avoca clover, which makes two to four tons per acre, builds soil, resists drought, can be planted from early spring to July, yields both a hay crop and, later, a seed crop. And we read where Johnson grass, long the terror of cotton farmers, can be cut and stored in inexpensive silos and proves a fine feed for cattle. Lescapade is another of the new grasses which are paving our fields with green for grazing cattle.

But let's be realistic. Too many farmers simply cannot afford to get started in cattle growing. It takes two to four years to convert run-down corn and cotton fields to good grazing pastures. Meanwhile the farmer has to earn some sort of a living. He can't live on air or hopes for three years—so, once again, he plants to cotton, and the vicious circle is repeated.

This is particularly true of tenant farmers. But it is NOT true of owners who lease to tenants. If they valued their land, many of them would work out that three-year program. Both would profit in the long run. But it would be a long-term matter.

Meanwhile there seems to be a gap in the governmental farm assistance programs which makes it impossible to assist a farmer to live while converting to stock raising. Yet much of Georgia's and Cobb county's agricultural future must lie in cattle. Maybe some practical governmental assistance program can be worked out. Let's hope it will be—soon.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

BYRD'S HALF-BAKED CRITICISM WASHINGTON, August 25.—President Byrd, of Virginia, for using half-baked figures in criticizing the national defense effort should have a salutary effect, but it is doubtful whether a repetition of such performances can be avoided wholly until the public itself voices more vigorous demands for national unity.

Aside from the fact that most of the Virginia senator's figures were all wrong, the critical side of the incident lies in the necessity for allaying public concern over the charges by citing official figures which tend to reveal important military secrets.

That is what the President was compelled to do in meeting the Byrd charges of woeful failure in defense production. Otherwise the country would become alarmed and no end of criticism would be forthcoming from elements anxious to find fault with the administration anyway.

From the military secrets angle, it certainly must have been of some interest to Germany how many tanks have been sent to the British, how our production is progressing in other directions. When the President was forced to meet the assertion of the senator that not a single tank had been supplied the British with the information that hundreds had been shipped and had seen actual service in Africa, then here was something of a military news value to Hitler.

The same was more or less true of the other production categories brought into the open because of the Byrd criticism.

INFORMATION FOR GERMANY In a slightly more moderate form, therefore, the offense he committed falls in the same light as the revelation made by another administration critic, Senator Wheeler, Montana isolationist, in anticipating the occupation of Iceland by American forces. Both put the Germans on notice of something closely associated with war activities.

There is no disposition on the part of the Roosevelt administration to resent sound criticism. It welcomes it. Hardened by eight years of almost constant criticism from opponents of his domestic and foreign policies, the President has developed a tougher skin in this respect than perhaps any of his recent predecessors. He is not in the least touchy about it any more.

His attitude is illustrated by his treatment of Wendell L. Willkie and former Governor Alf Landon, past two Republican presidential nominees, after all the harsh things they said about him in the 1936 and 1940 campaigns. Landon was made chairman of a governmental good-will mission sent to South America, while Willkie, more recently, was given Mr. Roosevelt's personal and semi-official blessing when he went to England in a similar one-man capacity.

But what the President and the administration dislike is criticism based on half-truths and not of a constructive nature. The Byrd charges are in that form, more definitely so in this classification than the added reason that before releasing his figures he did not trouble himself by having the information checked from official sources. The data would have been immediately available to him as a senator, just as it was to the President later in refuting his charges.

CREATES NATIONAL DISUNITY Moreover, by failing to show more diligence in the presentation of his case, whatever constructive points he may have had in his complaint against OPM and the progress of the defense program is lost sight of because of the apparent flaws in his criticism. Having been proved wrong about major items in his figures, the public will be inclined to discard the whole criticism as equally groundless. He presents a tainted package that suggests throwing away the entire loaf.

So obvious were some of the flaws in the Byrd figures, cited without authority but on his "responsibility as a senator," that they were recognized even before President Roosevelt called attention to them in his refuting comment. Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, happened to be in Washington at the time and was able to point out discrepancies which he himself had learned on a recent inspection tour of the nation's defense industry plants.

It may or may not have a significant bearing to remind that the Virginia senator has long been one of the leading critics of the administration on domestic policies. While he has gone along faithfully enough on the foreign policy program, he seldom has failed to seize on an opportunity for denouncing some phase of the New Deal domestic economy.

The course desired by the President in incidents of the kind is for administration critics to offer their complaints privately before airing them openly in a manner to create national disunity and to cause the public to believe that the administration is not doing its best. The war crisis confronting the nation demands as much.

Not as much notice was given it at the time, but an equal case in point was the hasty comment publicly made by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, another severe administration critic, that the joint declaration of principles by the President and Prime Minister Churchill constituted "a commitment that goes far beyond the constitutional powers of the President and one that no other President in our history ever presumed to assume."

It was later left for Mr. Roosevelt to inform congressional leaders that no commitments of any kind had actually been made. If Senator Walsh had waited, confirmed isolationist that he is, he might have been convinced himself, thus avoiding getting the country aroused over something that didn't exist.

ADVOCATES
Editor, Constitution: It is regrettable that there has been such division of opinion and so much debate regarding the extension of the period of service. However, were all given sufficient information regarding the actual conditions that confront this country that they would see things in a better light.

It is impossible for me to understand how it can possibly be fair for civilian workers to receive (on defense projects and private work) the very high wages and short hours and still be permitted to go on strikes. It seems to me that strikes should absolutely be abolished; at least for the duration of the emergency, and that any group that goes on strike should automatically be enlisted in the Army at the regular Army pay and hours.

The information I have indicates no country has yet been able to successfully prepare for and win a war on a forty-hour-a-week basis. Therefore, I suggest that during the emergency a sixty-hour-per-week basis be established immediately in all branches of industry and that strikes be absolutely prohibited.

Any grievances that the laboring man or the employer may have will have to be submitted to the Mediation Board which, of course, should have the power, or be empowered to render a final decision and have proper authority to enforce their decision.

F. GRAHAM WILLIAMS, Atlanta.

BELIEVES IN PRAYERS FOR U. S.
Editor, Constitution: The President of the United States issued a proclamation, some months ago, for the observance of a day of national prayer. The whole nation observed this day, but why hasn't he continued asking the people to pray for divine guidance of the Americas? Is it that we no longer believe in the power of God to answer prayer, or have we just forgotten the impending threat?

Though many might neglect using the privilege of prayer, Robert Quillen, famous newspaper columnist, still believes in it. He writes: "God of our fathers, who made and preserved us as a nation, once more in a time of dreadful peril, threatened as never before in our history, we appeal to Thee for guidance and for help. God give us men to lead us, for we are lost and without hope unless we have noble, far-seeing and courageous leadership. Restore our President's courage, if the awful strain of responsibility has made him afraid. Give him the moral courage to defy all the powers of evil and boldly declare and defend the principles of right and decency. Give understanding to all of us and preserve our faith in the eternal triumph of right. God give us men able and worthy to lead us, and give us grace and courage to follow the way of right until Thy will is done."

As long as we stick out our chests and idly boast of our great power, we shall not be a victorious nation. God expects us to put our prayers and words into effect by dynamic action. We need more knee action and less tongue "wagging." If we are going to "fight (and win) the good fight."

YORK CHAMBLESS, Dawson, Ga.

RE: POKER FOR THE ARMY.
Editor Constitution: It seems to be the idea in this present defense training program that in order to keep morale high mummy must bring sonny boy to school and turn him over to a hostess who guides him in the tough games of ping pong and croquet and amateur theatricals. As for diet—I'm sure they think meat is too heavy. No doubt they feed sonny boy on a diet of liver and kidneys. Just what are these men being trained for? To attend garden parties or to fight a bitter enemy? The thinking people know their boys can't ride kiddie cars and throw puff balls all their lives. They use tables, planes, battleships, submarines and plenty of bombs in warfare.

Let's let our men be men. Give them meat in their diet and sprinkle a little gun powder on it. Let them play a clean game of poker if they wish to. But for the sake of the boys themselves, let's cut out these silly ruffles and fancy foibles.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The opinions expressed by Mr. Pegler in this column are his own and do not necessarily represent the opinion of The Atlanta Constitution.

A Favorite Topic. WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has written an article for the September number of the Ladies Home Journal in which she discusses the Roosevelt family income. The press agent of the magazine has sent me advance information of the chance that I might mention the matter and thus stimulate sales which is the proper job of a press agent. I am glad to have this copy for the topic has been one of my favorites ever since the President authorized publication of the confidential income tax returns of various individuals who had opposed him but refused to reveal his own. About that time a congressional inquiry was running in the house and two opposition congressmen, Treadway, of Massachusetts, and Ham Fish, the Republican who somehow always relates himself in Roosevelt's home district, were allowed to ask questions only with the understanding that they would refrain from pressing any demand for publication of the President's own income, of his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, or Jimmy. Not a single return of any member of the Roosevelt family has been made public officially in all the years that the family, with the exception of the two youngest boys, Frankie and Johnny, has been riding the gravy train, although the returns of many other men have been analyzed critically and in a tone of voice which implied that a citizen was to be pilloried for strict compliance with the law and ought to have paid more taxes than the law required.

Where Does It Go? In her article Mrs. Roosevelt says that Mr. Roosevelt during his years in the presidency has spent more than his salary fulfilling the obligations of his office and that she, herself, notwithstanding an increase in her income, has less principal now than she had in 1932.

This may be so, but I still have to wonder why the President is so bashful about the family's several income tax returns in view of the fact that he, personally, gave the orders which broke the seal of confidence which normally is supposed to protect the returns of other citizens. Why the special privilege? And, inasmuch as Mrs. Roosevelt's own vast income is derived from the presidential office in the amount by which it exceeds her average income of the years before 1932 and inasmuch as Mrs. Roosevelt plainly recognizes this excess to be a public trust, I insist that the public has a right to know what she does with the money. I have reason to believe that a portion of it has been given to the Communistic causes.

Of course, there is a question which precedes this one. That question is whether Mrs. Roosevelt has exploited the presidency to make money. John Garner when he was vice president turned down an opportunity as a radio commentator with the remark that the price was more than he was worth as a private citizen but not enough to hire the vice president. A comparison of Mrs. Roosevelt's earnings before 1932, and since would prove that the presidential office has been exploited, and after that fact has been established we come to the question of what she did with the money.

Special Privilege. Jimmy Roosevelt is the only one whose returns have been made public, but he did that informally and even so admitted flatly that while he was still a law student he accepted a job as window dressing for a group of promoters at $15,000 a year knowing "perfectly well" that they were paying for the name and for any value the name might have. Yet when Congressman Treadway tried to compel an expert analysis of Jimmy's return similar to the hostile inspection of the returns of the President's political opponents, he was blocked by members who were determined that the Roosevelt family should have this special privilege.

This subject has been allowed to lie quiet for a long time, but inasmuch as Mrs. Roosevelt has seen fit to revive it there is just one answer: That is to be found in the income tax returns and nowhere else. And the President has the same authority to break the seal of confidence on Mrs. Roosevelt's return, on his mother's return, on all Roosevelt's—Jimmy, Elliott's, and Mrs. John Boettiger's and on the return of the late Uncle Forbes Morgan who landed a job with the whisky trust at $100,000 a year shortly before he died.

Break out the returns and then we will be in a position to discuss the issue with Mrs. Roosevelt on even terms.

Word Stories
By W. Worthington Wells

Sometimes we newspaper readers run across an editorial that is too bookish, or the scholarly work of a columnist that we say is "over our heads" or at least is difficult to follow. The proper word to describe such writings is: ERUDITE. As; too erudite, or an erudite column or editorial.

Erudite is an adjective pronounced er-u-DITE and pronounced phonetically er-oo-dit (er) as in error, (oo) as in book and (dit) to rhyme with night.

Erudite is most frequently used when discussing a high degree of knowledge of a bookish nature. As; erudite opinions; erudite criticisms. A book may be erudite but, if it is too erudite it is never a best seller.

Erudite is used as a sarcastic term when referring to a person who is attempting to make a scholarly showing without sufficient knowledge of the subject.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL

NEW INVENTIONS FOR WAR In Washington last week a gentleman who had been present at the historic meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, told a few friends that—

The reason there was such silence on the location of the ships during the talks was that a new use of radio had been employed. It was a deep secret but it was believed the English had found some way to send a radio message so that it would "break" its course. In other words it did not travel in a straight line, but at an angle.

The Germans were receiving messages which they may or may not have been able to de-code. They could not learn the location of the ships from the radio messages, which must have driven them frantic, to say the least.

Tracing down a radio is easy. That fact explains why the radio stations in Berlin always go off the air when a raid is begun. Air-planes, equipped with the proper direction finders, can figuratively ride one of those radio messages to the station, drop a few bombs on it, and also locate any nearby buildings of importance.

This supposition, that the English and this country, too, have a new development in radio sending, brought sharply to mind the defense trip made in the east and middle west some weeks ago. At Detroit the General Motors officials entertained with a dinner. At this dinner G. M.'s famous inventor, Charles Kettering, told us two things of major interest. One was that the greatest strides forward in this present war had been made in the field of radio. He said that once peace came some perfectly astounding progress would be revealed and applied in commercial fields.

I thought of that statement on hearing that it was believed the English and Americans had the Germans in a frantic rage because they could not follow the radio messages. As long as the Germans don't know where the ships rendezvoused for the meeting they can't do much figuring.

DESTROYING SUBMARINES It was at this dinner that Mr. Kettering said an invention was in the process of production and would, when produced in quantity, "eliminate the submarine as a menace."

That, too, we judged, was some invention in the field of radio. The submarine has to surface to recharge its batteries and to renew its supply of air. It does this at night.

Mr. Kettering could not amplify. But it was believed some development had been made practical enough to enable another surface vessel quickly to locate and destroy the surfaced submarine.

It also is possible that some new "ears" have been developed which will locate the submerged subs. It is possible to stop a submarine's electric motors only when the sub is on bottom. They can be slowed down to almost nothing without going to the bottom but enough power must be kept on to enable the submarine to maintain its balance in the water.

The "ears" of a destroyer can hear even this slight noise but it is difficult to follow. I recall that when we, of the newspaper party on the defense tour, submerged in a submarine and remained down for about an hour at a depth of 86 feet we plainly could hear small motorboats passing some distance from the point we were submerged. And our sub's "ears" were something they wouldn't discuss.

I have read, very carefully indeed, the reports of German raiders. And I have noted with interest the fact that submarines are not very much in the news. They don't seem to be nearly the menace they were a few months ago. I am just wondering.

THAT HISTORIC MEETING I never understood why the President's enemies want to nag at him and why they fret over such small things that often causes them to become wrathful.

One of the most ridiculous of these small things was the "I want to be a captain, too," attack used during the last campaign. Elliott Roosevelt, with plenty of background to recommend him for the place, was made a captain in the reserve corps. I can, without thinking hard, name you a dozen men holding that rank in the reserve corps not nearly so well qualified as Elliott Roosevelt. Yet because he was made a captain the President's always watchful critics tried to make an issue of it. It failed as it should have failed.

Young Franklin Roosevelt is an ensign in the navy. He is assigned to service on a destroyer. I can say from personal experience the most difficult service in the navy, with one lone exception is in destroyers. The one exception is submarines. In peacetime their service is not more uncomfortable than destroyers.

His destroyer was one of many assigned to duty the day Prime Minister Churchill and the President met. Young Roosevelt did not know, as the other officers did not know, what the meeting was about.

A wig-wag message came one day to his destroyer for Ensign Roosevelt to come over to the "Augusta." He turned to one of his fellow ensigns and said, "I'll bet that's the old man over there."

It was. Now, the fact that Elliott Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt are his sons seems ample explanation to me why they should have been invited to Sunday church services on the English ship. Why, in heaven's name, shouldn't he have asked his own sons to be present? Most of the other officers—all that were not required during that period for duty—were present.

Yet the critics of the President found something wrong with them being there. It is not fair and of course it isn't logical, to make an issue of it. I understand this sort of thing less and less. Which may be just as well.

Organize and Rule or Be Kicked Around Like Stepchildren
By ROBERT QUILLEN

The white-collar worker is the forgotten man of America, and his unhappy plight will grow steadily worse until he learns political wisdom from other workers.

In a world where justice is forgotten and only threat and force have influence, even citizens of a free land can no longer hope for consideration unless they are organized and thus prepared to use the ballot as a club to intimidate congressmen and party leaders.

The first and last concern of politicians is to keep their jobs. They will serve any cause that has votes, and ignore any cause that is powerless at the polls.

A few years ago frightened congressmen obediently jumped through the hoop whenever organized prohibitionists cracked the whip.

Later, there was a period of several years when organized veterans were the masters and every congressman tried to do their will.

Even Dr. Townsend's organized followers had their day of power and no congressman dared to oppose them openly.

Now there are fake organizations, with no membership except the crack-pots who fattered them, and even these, by claiming to represent many voters, are able to influence the government.

Organized laborers and farmers are in the saddle now, and their will is law. They can veto any law they disapprove, or obtain any legislation they desire.

Only white-collar workers, the middle-class people called the backbone of America, are without voice or influence.

Efforts are being made to prevent ruinous inflation by fixing prices, but wages and farm prices are not limited and therefore the efforts must fail. The first and chief victims of inflation will be the white-collar workers whose incomes are static.

If the middle-class white-collar workers do not organize, and do it quickly, the nation they helped to build will be taken from them and they will lose all voice in its affairs.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

ED REED 8-26

"Convoy, Madam?"

Dudley Glass

As the humorous Sir Harry Lauder used to sing so plaintively: "It's nice to get up in the mornin', but it's nicer to lie in bed."

Which reminds me of convention excursions and long automobile rides and staying up late and sleeping in strange beds and missing your 200-proof coffee in the morning.

Little group of us, talking it over, agreed the best thing about going places was getting home again. One of them spoke of the village halfwit who loved to beat himself over the head with a hammer. Because it felt so good when it stopped hurting.

It's mighty fine to meet a bunch of friends you see just once a year. It's equally fine to meet a stranger or two, and learn they know your name and occasionally read your stuff. A writer—and I am sure that applies also to singers, comedians and orators—never grows tired of words of praise, no matter how faint. If they say it bores them they are plain or fancy liars.

Most of all, I think, during a trip last week I missed my dog. I rarely take that flop-eared hound out of the yard because he doesn't know how to behave. He begs to climb into the car with me—and when he gets there he cries and howls and whines and barks and attempts to jump out of the window. If he gets into the back he insists on licking the rear of the driver's neck. Which takes her mind off the road.

Three or four folks did take their dogs to last week's little meeting, only to discover canines would not be admitted. I heard of one woman who ordered her luggage returned to her car and drove 250 miles back home—with her dog. One solved the difficulty by using the car as her dog's boudoir, in that she resented deeply—at all hours. And a third, who had a room at another hotel, smuggled her tiny brute into the house by placing her in a paper bag. Once in the bathroom this mutt was safe from managers or house detectives. Because she is accustomed to travel and hotel bathrooms. And the room responds easily to cleaning up.

Good Friend Gone.

When I came home from a trip and came down to the shop Sunday to read my fan mail, if any, the elevator man told me Gene Taylor had passed on—after a short illness. It didn't seem right. Gene was only 32.

I'd had a lot to do with Gene in the seven or eight years I was struggling along in the local advertising game—if you could call it that—since I'd come to The Constitution.

Gene Taylor stuck to his desk in the advertising department and checked up on ads and sent out proofs and received complaints and kinder specialized—I understand—on the theater advertising, which is more or less full of detail and last-minute changes.

I was accustomed to being waked up late on a cold or wet night by one of my clients for whom I'd written an ad. And he had suddenly decided he wanted changes—after reading and approving the proof.

Nobody wants to wash his face and get dressed and drive eight miles to change three words in an ad. So I'd call up Gene Taylor. He'd get the proof and take my changes and corrections and other fool ideas and fix everything up. And when he'd done exactly O. K. I'd complain gently to my client that it was tough to have to get up and dress and start a cold car and drive all the way to town because he had a last-minute idea.

I don't know who's handling Gene's job. Newspapers, like "the show," must go on. But if he handles it as well as Gene did he'll be a humdinger.

Sitting Pretty.

Edna Cain Daniel, who edits the Quiltman Free Press, down in southwest Georgia, was talking about Quiltman—and who has a better right. She's lived there and run the paper for quite a number of years.

She wasn't criticizing Quiltman. She rather thought the folk who run the town had something on the ball.

Edna said Quiltman was about

On Getting Home—Which Is Best Part Of Going Anywhere

the only town which hadn't gone all out after defense contracts or a military camp or a government airport or something like that. As a woman of vast enterprise she felt some regrets—but not many.

Maybe Quiltman has the right idea. It's a lovely old town I'm fond of visiting. Parks in the streets and flowers on the lawns and pretty old homes and attractive new ones. A cotton mill—maybe two—and a few other industries.

But no great hustle and bustle and whoop-em-up. No machinery converting the hillsides into red clay gashes.

Merchants mostly run a town. Big activities with a thousand or so newcomers attract trade. For a while.

Maybe the Quiltman merchants don't care. I'd say that's pretty much their own business. After all, these war industries come—and go. When they go they leave a lot of families behind—with no pay checks. And nowhere to find new jobs. There's a Community Chest problem.

I know I'm fighting the go-getter boys—or, not fighting them, but not helping about them.

Of course, I don't make my living in Quiltman. I couldn't. But it's such a pleasant, friendly town I'd hate to see it all messed up.

Charles Fahy Is Expected To Succeed Biddle

Native of Georgia Seen as New Solicitor General.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Constitution Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The possibility of Charles Fahy, a former Georgian, being named solicitor general of the United States—highest active legal office in the government—was seen here tonight following President Roosevelt's appointment of Solicitor General Francis Biddle to be attorney general.

Fahy, a native of Rome, Ga., where he was born in 1892, is the present assistant solicitor general. Reports were generally current that the President will forward his nomination to the capitol just as soon as the senate confirms the Biddle nomination for attorney general.

Native of Rome. Although a native of Georgia, the former Rome man has not lived in the state for some years, and now claims New Mexico as his official voting residence. He has been connected with the government in varying capacities since the beginning of the Roosevelt administration, when he was made first assistant solicitor of the Interior Department. Later he was transferred to the National Labor Relations Board as general counsel, serving in that capacity until 1934.

Practiced Law. The son of Thomas and Sarah (Jones) Fahy, of Rome, Fahy attended Darlington at Rome before going to Notre Dame University in 1910; subsequently he attended Georgetown University in Washington, receiving degrees from both institutions.

Admitted to the bar in 1914, he practiced law in the nation's capital until 1924, when he moved to Santa Fe, N. M., and was living there at the time of his appointment as assistant solicitor of the

Farmers Lead List of Special Exemptions

Students Next Highest in Georgia Deferment Requests.

With slightly more than three-fourths of Georgia's 420,000 draft registrants already classified, farmers are leading the list of 148 occupations in which men have received deferment as "necessary men," figures released at selective service headquarters yesterday show.

Local boards have deferred 2,069 farmers through July 31 as compared with 669 students, the next highest occupation in the list.

Other Occupations. Number of men in other occupations who were deferred were: managers, 148; engineers, 141; teachers, 124; clerks, 110; mechanics, 89, and machinists, 79.

Boards have been asked repeatedly to defer farmers engaged in growing products vital to national welfare and defense.

There are 5,077 Georgians in Class II; 4,859 in II-A, "occupations necessary to the national safety, health, or interest," and 218 men in II-B, "actual national defense jobs." Deferment in Class II-A is for only six months.

Most of the men deferred for six months are placed in Class I-A after their period of deferment expires. Major Charles Brockman, occupational deferment officer, said yesterday.

No Cut-and-Dried Rule. There is no cut-and-dried rule on the types of occupations in which a registrant may get temporary exemption.

Deferment lists include an acrobat, a beekeeper, a diplomat, eight embalmers, three newspapermen, five policemen, 50 salesmen, a deputy sheriff, a dog trainer, and two state troopers.

Biddle Named For Attorney General Post

Solicitor General Since 1940, He Will Succeed Jackson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP) Francis Biddle, a direct descendant of Edmund Randolph, the first attorney general of the United States, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be attorney general.

Biddle, solicitor general since January, 1940, will succeed Robert H. Jackson, now a member of the supreme court, whom he also succeeded as solicitor general. Charles Fahy, assistant solicitor general, is expected to become Biddle's successor.

The senate judiciary committee is expected to consider the nomination next week.

Senator Barkley, the majority leader, said it was "a well-earned promotion," and Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, said he knew of no objection to Biddle. Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, commented: "I understand he's an able lawyer and I have no objection to the nomination." Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, said "he was a fine judge and is a good lawyer and I am in favor of the nomination."

The 55-year-old Biddle, member of a well-known Philadelphia family, is tall, spare and slightly stooped, but in his school days was champion boxer and captain of the gymnast team at Groton. He also attended Harvard University, taking his arts and law degrees with special honors.

Interior Department in 1933. The solicitor generalship of the Department of Justice is usually regarded as a stepping stone either to the cabinet or to the supreme court. Associate Justices Jackson and Stanley Reed both served as solicitor general before elevation to their present offices.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

CHURCHILL TO ROOSEVELT. I came to my study to write a column for today's papers on another subject, and just as I sat down to the typewriter, the wind turned several pages in a magazine here on the table beside me, and when the pages stopped turning, I was gazing at a cartoon by Kirby (New York Post)—a really great cartoon. And we do have so few real cartoons. I wonder why.

Well, this cartoon—I hope you have seen it—presents Uncle Sam as an Eagle, with the Stars and Stripes above, and John Bull as the Lion, with the Union Jack above, and beneath the mighty figures representing the two great English-speaking nations, this legend: "Roosevelt-Churchill War Aims—Destroy Nazism and Disarm Aggressors."

The drawing pictures these mighty figures perched on a ship's deck, with the dark, rolling sea all about. And beneath the cartoon this line: "Memo for Shick-leguber."

I forgot my original idea for the column today. I just sat here and looked at that cartoon. And then I turned to another file on the table and read again the Eight Points. I read them over several times. And then I turned to last week's Time and read again about the Sunday morning hour of worship on the deck of the Prince of Wales, when the President crossed over from his ship to the prime minister's ship, and together they sat and sang:

"O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home."

And I read on about how they sang together:

"Onward, Christian soldiers,
Marching as to war,
With the cross of Jesus,
Going on before."

And the remark of Churchill to Roosevelt: "I thank God that such a man as you is the head of your government at a time like this."

Having followed the custom taught me by my Christian father and mother, and taught by the Holy Book of God, I have prayed for the President of the United States all my Christian life. But somehow, as I sit here tonight, looking at this cartoon—reading again the Eight Points—I find myself more deeply moved than ever to pray without ceasing for these two men, charged, as they are, with the leadership of the English-speaking world. They are truly great men, for which we are all duly grateful, I trust; but they are, after all, just human beings like the rest of us. More greatly endowed, to be sure, but yet human beings. There seems so little that any one of us can do. And yet we all and each can pray for them. That God will grant them wisdom and courage to do the right—pray that we, too, may do our part, our very best part. Selah.

Captive Balloons To Guard U. S. Coast

Barrage Craft Being Made In Quantities

Defense Expert Describes Lighter-Than-Air Preparations.

(In the latter of two articles on lighter-than-air craft, W. W. Chaplin, International News Service national defense expert, tells of America's programs for barrage balloons and a new type observation balloon capable of greater efficiency than the old style "captive balloons" still in use in the war zone.)

By W. W. CHAPLIN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Army as well as the Navy is turning today to lighter-than-air weapons to make American defense impregnable against modern war machines.

As the Navy is building a fleet of fire-proof helium dirigibles to guard the coast against submarines and mines, so the Army is pressing plans for enormous numbers of barrage balloons and a new type of observation balloon believed to be better than any similar aerial watchtowers in Europe.

The new observation balloons are different from the usual type in that they are not permanently tied to the ground by cable, which limits mobility. They have a small engine and propeller and can make their own way to the desired position, then drop an anchor to the earth just like a ship at anchor. The cable is attached to the anchor rope so that once their anchor is down the observers are in constant communication with their ground forces.

Old Type Balloon. The old type of observation balloon, still in wide use abroad, was let up into the air from a winch on a truck. When it was desired to change position the truck could drag the unwieldy "captive balloon" only where there were no obstacles. If there were telephone wires in the way the balloon would be pulled and the cable moved, and raised again, with consequent loss of valuable time.

Production figures on the new "motorized" observation balloons are listed by the Army as restricted information, but no secret is made of the fact that they are being made and that initial tests have been highly satisfactory.

They have the added advantage over European balloons of being filled with helium instead of hydrogen, so that they cannot be set afire by incendiary bullets. Helium is available only in America.

As to barrage balloons in this country, defense chiefs are completely convinced of their importance and have authorized mass production.

The temporary barrage balloon training center at Camp Davis, N. C., is soon to be moved to the permanent center near Paris, Tenn., where there are facilities for training 7,000 men. At the moment there is only one barrage balloon training school in America, and it is to be quickly formed by the Coast Guard, which has been given control of this new service.

The balloons now being made at numerous factories throughout the country, but particularly at the Akron plant of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, pioneer dirigible manufacturers, are 87 feet long and 35 feet in diameter. They are designed to be raised as high as a mile above the earth.

Purpose Described. The purpose of the scheme of American defense is described by Major General J. A. Green, chief of Coast Artillery, as follows:

"So much has been published about the London barrage balloons that we think of balloons as being of use except for the defense of a large city. This is not the case. Should we become involved in this war, barrage balloons would be ideal for added protection of the locks of the Panama canal, the Welland canal and the Sault Ste. Marie locks. These are small targets. To be assured of obtaining hits, low flying or dive bombing is necessary.

"The balloons prevent this. If they are used in sufficient numbers, they force the enemy to fly at a height of more than a mile. At that altitude the bomber's chances of registering a hit, even if he safely weathers the anti-aircraft gunfire, will be immeasurably less than if he would be free to approach close to the locks before releasing his bombs."

The barrage balloons, which carry no personnel, are to be filled with the cheaper hydrogen to conserve the supply of helium for the lighter-than-air fighting and observation ships operated by Army and Navy crews.

Donald Higgins Named Managing Editor of Item

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.—(AP) Ralph Nicholson, new publisher of the New Orleans Item, today announced appointment of Donald H. Higgins as managing editor, succeeding Clarke Salmon, who resigned to undertake other work, the nature of which he did not make public.

Higgins has been a member of the Item staff since March, 1919, serving successively as reporter, Sunday editor, city editor, assistant managing editor and acting managing editor since early June during the illness of Salmon, still recuperating at his home here.

MANY BULLS SOLD. VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 25.—During the past week a carload of Hereford and other purebred bulls have been sold in Valdosta. These animals have been largely bought by "city cattlemen" who are enthusiastic over the possibility of substantial profits from improving the breed of cattle in this section of the state.

ON THE ALERT!—Scanning the skies for "enemy aircraft" are these members of the Fulton county unit, Georgia civilian defense corps. The listening post, the first in the county, is located "somewhere in Fulton." On the tower, pointing, is Captain Ray Spitzer. Captain M. G. Clark Jr., is shown center, while Lieutenant R. M. Braswell is in the rear. Others in the group include Cecil Stockard, Sam Ford, W. H. Armstrong, D. A. Carson, C. E. Helfrick, Fred R. Jones and J. Lynn Pflug.

County Heads Hear Protests On Parking Lot

Palisades Road Residents Taken for 'Ride' on Merry-Go-Round.

By FRANK DRAKE.

Residents of fashionable Palisades road went round and round on a merry-go-round yesterday at the county commissioners' meeting but after a nice ride during which nobody grabbed the brass ring, they all had to get off where they got on.

It came about because a grocery store at the corner of Peachtree road and Palisades road is building a parking lot for its customers immediately behind the store and next to the home and property of W. H. Smaw, retired businessman.

Colonel Robert W. Collins, an Army man with a dignified bearing, a four-star general would envy, was spokesman for Smaw and a group of neighbors who came to ask the commissioners to do something about preventing the store using the parking lot, clearing its entrance on Palisades road was a traffic hazard and contending that when the Palisades section was zoned, it was not meant for any such thing to happen.

The colonel began the hearing by starting to read from a lengthy petition to the commission. But he had difficulty.

Anything But Formal. The colonel is a man not used to interruptions but a county commission meeting is anything but formal. He had plenty, and every time he did he stopped reading and politely waited until all was quiet again.

Tracy Chastain, chairman, and Commissioner Ed Almond, struck up a conversation while the colonel was right in the middle of a paragraph—and the colonel ceased reading.

"Don't bother about us, go right ahead," said Chastain. "We've got a little matter to settle." The colonel proceeded. Commissioner Glover Halley then got up and made a telephone call. The colonel struggled on.

Finally he finished and Smaw took over. Smaw was somewhat excited about the damage he alleged was being done his property, and he shook his fist over the table toward the commissioners.

"Look here," said Almond. "If you keep shaking your fist I'm going to get mad."

Smaw, after a comforting pat on the shoulder from the colonel, quieted down.

"Nobody's mad," he exclaimed. "But for a minute, Smaw was excited again, only he didn't shake his fist any more at Ed Almond. He contended that when the grocery store lot was zoned it was done illegally because notice of zoning was not properly posted, and that he had been to the county planning commission and that he had been referred to the county commission, and that the county commission had the power to instruct the legal department to bring an injunction suit to stop the parking lot as a nuisance.

Chastain told him the law had been changed, the planning commission now has the power to order an injunction petition—not the county commission. Halley leaped in to explain this further, and asserted Smaw's recourse is

Today in Atlanta Churches

Central Presbyterian church executive board will hold its August meeting at 11 o'clock this morning at the summer home of Mrs. Joseph Whitner, at Porter Springs, Ga. Mrs. W. L. McCall, president, announced. Members will be entertained at a "spend-the-day" party by the hosts.

Capitol View Baptist church W. M. U. will hold a mission study at 10 o'clock this morning at the home of Mrs. R. M. Langston, of 2101 McKinley road, N. E. Mrs. J. F. Singleton will teach the book, "The World Overcoming the World." Visitors and members are urged to attend.

Hill Park Baptist W. M. U. will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at the church for a mission study. Miss Elizabeth Mayes will teach "Bible Stewardship."

Capitol View Baptist W. M. U. will hold its regular monthly business meeting at 10 o'clock this morning at the church. Mrs. V. M. Womack, superintendent of the W. M. U. Atlanta Association, will be the speaker, and Mrs. H. W. Miller, secretary of the second district, will bring the devotional.

Druid Hills Methodist Circles of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the homes. The next tonight, but beginning next month meetings will be held on the first Tuesday, making the date of the next meeting September 2.

Leahy Back in Vichy After Week's Vacation

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Admiral William Leahy, United States ambassador, returned to his desk today after a week's motor trip to Switzerland for a rest.

Commander Abel C. J. Sabatol assumed the post of naval attaché at the same time, replacing Commander Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, who is returning to Washington after three years with the embassy in France.

VALDOSTA CONVENTION. SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 25.—(AP) J. C. Sipple, city court sheriff and president of the Sheriffs' and Peace Officers' Association will Georgia, said the organization will hold its annual convention October 16 in Valdosta.

in bringing a suit in civil court himself.

The ride of the residents of Palisades road had about ended. The merry-go-round was nearly back to the beginning point. Smaw saw the handwriting on the wall and accepted it.

"Pardon me, pardon me," he said, throwing up his hands and turning on his heel. The merry-go-round stopped and the Palisades people got off.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or easy passage with amazing and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

City and County At Odds Over Voting List

Savage Writes 'No,' While Hill Says 'Yes' to Legality of Matter.

The legal departments of the city and county are at odds over whether the city legally can use the county's voting list which is to be revised by re-registration beginning September 2.

Because the words "and cities" were left out of the law requiring registration of all Fulton voters, City Attorney Jack Savage wrote the commissioners he did not believe the city could use the new list.

But the county legal department, through Harvey Hill, advised county attorney, advised the commissioners the city can use the list if it wishes under a law passed in 1935. The law makes it permissive for the county to furnish the city a voting list, he stated.

The commissioners have made overtures to the city for reimbursement of part of the cost of compiling the voters' list, but Savage pointed out that there is no law requiring the city to pay.

The commissioners pointed out there is no law requiring the county to furnish the list, although the list of poll tax payers is open to the public.

16 New Cases Of Polio in State

Weekend reports on infantile paralysis yesterday added 16 new cases to the state's total, bringing to 511 the number of persons afflicted since June 1, the State Health Department reported.

No new cases were listed in Atlanta, Fulton or DeKalb counties. The last Fulton county report was made last Monday, from East Point.

Most of the cases recorded yesterday are several days old. Dr. Dan Bowdoin, of the State Health Department, said.

One additional case was reported in Oglethorpe, Troup, Ware, Richmond, Spalding, Polk, Dooly, Walton and Hall counties, and seven delayed reports came from Chattahoochee county.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Be careful that you do not misinterpret or misjudge or overdo in financial transactions previous to 11:42 a. m., but if you will give your attention to affairs of a light vein or which involve your domestic and social happiness this can be a very agreeable period. Between 11:42 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. harsh words, undesirable conditions or social happenings may creep in to give you a feeling of depression. However, this is not lasting, for after 4:30 p. m. things should go right without much effort.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Before 11:23 a. m. does not favor speculative ideas. Between 12:23 p. m. and 3:32 p. m. favors interests pertaining to land. After 3:32 p. m. favors sticking to routine matters.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Unless careful thought is given to your undertaking previous to 3:17 p. m. you will very likely meet with little co-operation in your plans for others. After 3:17 p. m. is an excellent time to start new enterprises that have been carefully thought out.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—An excellent day for putting your best foot forward. The day favors consultation, financial interests, educational matters, experiments and sociability.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—More success will be attained today through sticking to routine. Be deliberate in what you do and do not undertake affairs impulsively. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 1 p. m.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—The day does not especially favor new beginnings or assuming added responsibilities. The best aspects of the day operate between 10:28 a. m. and 1:08 p. m.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—The combined influences today supply inspiration that is favorable for financial interests, making personal decisions, contacting superiors, as well as general business activities. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3 p. m.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—This is a day when you should not allow even slight disagreements to develop. Business and professional changes are not especially favored.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—Before 11:23 a. m. keep away from speculative ideas and scrutinize any new project that may be brought to you for decision at this time. Between 11:23 a. m. and 3:32 p. m. is an excellent period for advanced educational ideas. After 3:32 p. m. favors sticking to routine matters.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—After 10:31 a. m. and continuing throughout the day and evening is a very favorable period for anything that has charm, music, beauty, poetry and an ambition along these lines may be secured in some surprising way.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—The entire day and until 11:12 p. m. favors dealings that call for graciousness of manner and interests that are of a practical nature. The period favors research, studying, investigations, for dealings with managers, officials and community interests.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—Before 11:39 a. m. favors attention to only ordinary and routine matters. The remainder of the day gives full rein to your activities, whether business, sports or personal.

Although William L. Shirer, author of the best-seller, "Berlin Diary," is famous as an authority on Germany, his personal interest in India probably is stronger. At one time, he lived in that country and wrote a novel about the place which was never published. He plans to revise the manuscript and submit it for publication, soon. Publishers and movie companies have submitted bids for the book, sight unseen. Shirer, meantime, is busy with his many broadcasts and with preparations for his new sponsored series which starts via CBS in October.

Bernard Herrmann To Lead Orchestra in Dvorak Concert.

Burgess Meredith, who has been reporting everything from infantry charges to life in an Army camp in his radio work, interviews unusual Americans on "We, the People" over Columbia network and WGST tonight.

Bernard Herrmann, young musical conductor, will lead the Columbia Concert orchestra in the third program of the Dvorak anniversary series.

Albert Warner and John Charles Daly, Columbia reporters and news analysts, describe the work of a government agency in "Report to the Nation."

Thousands of dollars in unclaimed fortunes await their rightful owners on "Are You a Missing Heir?"

Newsworthy guests from all parts of the nation describe their unusual experiences to Master of Ceremonies Burgess Meredith on "We, the People," over Columbia and WGST at 8 o'clock. Music is by Mark Warnow and his orchestra.

Bernard Herrmann leads the Columbia Concert orchestra in the third of a series of broadcasts commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of Antonin Dvorak, over WGST at 3:45 p. m. From the Bohemian composer's extensive portfolio, Herrmann has selected the "Wanda" overture and the first and second waltzes from Opus 54.

The work of another major federal agency is outlined by the 39th Columbia network "Report to the Nation," to be heard over WGST at 8:30 tonight. Brewster Morgan directs, Richards Hippelheuser writes the script, and the narrators are Albert Warner and John Charles Daly, two of CBS's Washington scores.

The weekly broadcast of "Are You a Missing Heir?" seeks owners of unclaimed fortunes totaling many thousands of dollars. The cases presented are taken from the files of probate courts in the United States and Canada. (WGST will handle at 7 o'clock.)

WATL Will Broadcast Championship Fight

A stumbling block which once felled many a good sportscaster will be hurdled again by Don Dunphy when he faces the Mutual microphone tonight to give 1,000,000 listeners the story of the Gus Lesnevich-Tami Mauriello fight for the light-heavyweight championship of the world. (WATL will handle at 9 p. m.)

The nemesis appeared the first time on a night last winter when Dunphy and seven other announcers sat before microphones trying out for the job as blow-by-blow sportscaster. The fight chosen for the tryout was a battle between a couple of lightweighters with tongue-twisting names, and one of the factors that led to Dunphy's victory was his ability to pronounce what nobody else could.

One of those names was Gus Lesnevich.

Eddie Cantor, serving as the guest of Dorothy Kilgallen on her Tuesday evening "Voice of Broadway" program via CBS, kept the famous commentator in a state of suspense for half-an-hour before the start of the program, and all through the actual broadcast itself. Eddie exhibited a telegram blank which, he said, had just arrived from Hollywood and contained "sensational" news about a famous actress which he was going to deliver on the broadcast, to "scop" his hostess on her own program. Cantor refused to let Miss Kilgallen see the telegram until after the program—which went off without the promised exposé. Then he handed it to her. The message, a note in Eddie's own handwriting, read: "I've enjoyed the broadcast; many thanks."

Kate Smith is using the time between her CBS noon-day broadcasts from her summer home at Lake Placid to good advantage. The song-star is compiling recipes from her listeners all over the country and will soon publish them in a new cook book.

With six weeks remaining before his return to the air, Jack Benny is trying to find time for a quick trip to New York for the vacation which has failed to materialize for the comic this summer. First, it was his picture, "Charley's Aunt"; then several Army camp appearances and a spot on radio's "Treasure Hour." Benny hopes to spend at least a week in New York before his fall schedule gets under way. In addition to his broadcasts, Benny will make a picture for Warner Brothers, starting in October.

Mark Warnow has returned to his post as musical director for the "We, the People," broadcasts on CBS. Warnow was absent for a month while recovering from a minor operation.

House Jameson, familiar to radio listeners as "Sam Aldrich," of NBC's "Aldrich Family," first won notice on the New York stage in the "Grand Street Follies," in which he did a travesty on Will Rogers, then the star of Ziegfeld's Follies. Jameson, Texas born, got the job because the casting director figured—that every Texas was a cowboy—and hence knew how to twirl a rope.

Dorothy Gray's Nut-Brown Red to wear with

Kona Red

Rich's dramatic new accessory color

Dorothy Gray creates a new warm-hearted make-up shade as the perfect accent for Kona Red . . . and for your beige, tan, green, brown or Taupe costumes. The deep lustrous coloring of her Nut-Brown Red radiates autumn glory . . . reminds you of bright, burnished leaves . . . clear brisk days . . . a harvest of beauty and generous loveliness! An exciting fall fashion story in a nutshell: Co-ordinated make-up . . . lipstick, compact rouge, powder, nail enamel . . . all in a plump little nutshell case for 2.50.

Kona Red . . . Rich's own new accent-color carefully matched in bags, shoes, gloves!

Suddenly out of this season-for-color comes a brilliant new shade . . . destined to cast a rosy glow over all Atlanta! A warm, heady wine-tone . . . stemming from the pigment used in ancient Byzantine stained-glass windows. Rich's fashion experts seized it on sight . . . carefully carried the color from suede and leather shoes to bags to gloves. Ready today to put you into Kona Red top to toe, in one magnificent color singleton, or to use as the exciting, subtle color-contrast with Victory blue, beige, or green costumes. The turning leaves will tempt you to colored accessories later . . . why not begin to out-do their brilliance with Kona Red today?

A. Koret's Kona Red bag . . . simple elegance in waxed leather, 13.50 . . . Matching waxed leather gloves, $2.98 . . . Carlisle's wall-toe medium heel pump, Kona Red waxed leather, with stitching trim, 8.75

Heirloom Wedding Rings Given Betrothed Couple

By SALLY FORTH.

♦ ♦ ♦ MUCH SENTIMENT is attached to the 80-year-old wedding rings which will be used by Margaret Bernal and Ensign George Foote at their marriage on September 13 at the First Baptist church. The gold bands, you see, were first used by George's great-grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Foote, at their wedding, which was in the form of a double ring ceremony. An added note of sentiment lies in the fact that George's parents, Mrs. Inez Foote and the late George P. Foote, also used the same rings at their wedding 24 years ago.

Another feature of Margaret and George's wedding, which will be solemnized at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, will be the music to be played while the guests assemble. George, you know, is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity, therefore Margaret has selected the song, "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," to be played at her wedding.

Included among the many handsome gifts which the couple has received is the chest of silver in the "Quincy" pattern which was a wedding gift to George's parents. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hamrick, of Albertville, the groom-elect's grandparents, have presented the bridal couple a dainty pink hob-nailed water set, which they received 50 years ago at the time of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Hamrick will also be the donors of a platter which has been handed down in the family for 10 generations. The platter was brought to this country from England many years ago by John McMullen.

Since last April 18, when Margaret and George became engaged, each Sunday he has sent her a red rose, which is her favorite flower. George also demonstrates his affection for his pretty fiancée by presenting her a gift every month, a gesture he started after their romance began last summer.

♦ ♦ ♦ A NOTE of sentiment attached to the marriage of Sara Jarvis and Hal S. Dumas Jr. will be the pianist, who will present music at the reception. Mrs. Cora Garwood, of Athens, who is a close friend of Sara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jarvis Jr., and played at their wedding, will be the pianist at the reception for Sara and Hal at the Jarvis residence on East Lake drive.

Sara and Hal have chosen September 24 as the date for their marriage, the ceremony to be brilliantly solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening at St. Luke church. Preceding their wedding, the popular pair will be feted at numerous parties, among which is the affair planned by Mrs. Ned Guild for September 12.

Sara and Hal will number among their most treasured gifts those which they will receive from their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis, you see, will give their daughter and her fiancé two lots and Mr. and Mrs. Hal S. Dumas will be the donors of a chest of flat silver in the "Candlelight" pattern.

♦ ♦ ♦ LISTED AMONG the bevy of lovely bridal attendants who have been chosen by bride-elect Katharine Averett, of Columbus, are Frances Woodruff DuRose, known formally as Mrs. Beverly DuRose Jr., of this city, who will serve as a bridesmaid.

Katharine, who is one of Columbus' most popular belles, will become the bride of Lieutenant Reuben Benjamin Kimbrough, of Fort Knox, Ky., on the evening of September 12 at the First Presbyterian church in Columbus. The wedding, which will be an outstanding

Parties Continue For Miss Brooks Prior to Wedding

Miss Lufred Brooks, lovely bride-elect of September 20, continues to form the inspiration for numerous social affairs prior to her marriage to James B. Fisher, of Harrisville, W. Va.

On Wednesday evening Miss Helen Barnes will compliment Miss Brooks at a handkerchief shower and bridge party at her home on Clairmont avenue in Decatur. On Saturday Mrs. Richard Waddell will fete the bride-elect at a bridge party at her home on Avery street in Decatur. On September 10 Mrs. John McKinley will be hostess at a kitchen shower at her home on Vidal boulevard in honor of Miss Brooks.

Among others who will entertain for Miss Brooks are Misses Sarah Gray Rainey, Margaret McPherson and Florine Allen, the dates of these affairs to be announced later.

District No. 2, O. E. S. To Hold School.

Atlanta District No. 2, Grand Chapter of Georgia, O. E. S., will hold a school of instruction this evening at 8 o'clock in the hall of Lebanon Chapter No. 105, O. E. S., corner of Stewart and Dill avenues. This school of instruction is under the direction of the grand instructors of Atlanta District No. 2, Mrs. Martha Simons and Miss Mary Davis.

Chapters taking part in this school will be Marietta, Cascade, Clara Henrich, Electa and Lebanon. An interesting and instructive program is being arranged and all members of the order are invited.

Better Films Board.

Mrs. O. D. Bartlett, president, announces that the regular monthly meeting of the executive board of Atlanta Better Films Committee will be held Thursday in the Ansley Room of the Ansley hotel at 11 o'clock. All members of the board are requested to attend as a number of important matters are to be discussed.

Miss Martha Sue Doddard, of Asheville, N. C., left, poses with her cousin, Miss Bonnie Jean Marler, whom she is visiting. A series of parties is being given in honor of the pair, among which will be the luncheon at which Mrs. M. M. Haynes entertains tomorrow at her Park avenue home. Mrs. E. O. Drummond was hostess at a dinner at her home in Acworth last evening. Miss Marler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Marler, leaves at an early date to resume her studies at Shorter College.

East Point News.

Mrs. Lillian Belk is visiting at Chimney Rock, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hutchinson have returned from a visit in Rochester, N. Y., and New York city.

Mrs. Doyle Belk entertained recently at her home on Langhorn street in celebration of her birthday.

daughter and Mrs. John H. Fant, and Mrs. Louise Austin are visiting in Canada. En route home they will visit in South Carolina.

Mrs. Margaret Holland, who spent a vacation in Florida, has returned.

Mrs. Peal Pattillo and Harold Pattillo are in Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. J. Y. Busbee has returned from a visit in Pennsylvania with her daughter.

Trio of Visitors Will Be Honored At Social Affairs

Miss Cynthia Searing and Miss Frances T. Pew, both of Ardmore, Pa., and Miss Ardis Flick, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., continue to inspire numerous social affairs during their stay in the city. They are the attractive guests of Miss Margaret Black at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Black, on Oakdale road.

The visitors will share honors today at the luncheon to be given by Mrs. Arthur Tufts at her home on Clifton road, in Druid Hills.

Miss Frances Young will also honor the visitors at a luncheon. The affair, to be given tomorrow, will assemble a group of close friends.

Miss Searing, who is the fiancée of George Black, of Chester, Pa., and Atlanta, will be in the city for the remainder of the week. Miss Pew and Miss Flick will return to their respective homes Wednesday evening.

Miss Holt Honored.

Miss Martha Holt, bride-elect of August, was honored at a linen and lingerie shower given by Mrs. George Ware and Miss Mattie Broome recently. The LeFevre Trio and the Young Boys' Trio gave a musical program. Mrs. Louise Thompson and Miss Lillian Lemons gave a reading, and Miss Lois Eskew sang. Assisting Mrs. Ware and Miss Broome in entertaining were Miss Ruth Holt, Mrs. Grace Holt Caldwell, Mrs. Bertha Bennett, Mrs. Violet Ewing and Miss Eulah Broome.

Miss Josephine Lawrence, Mr. Dunaphant Wed Today

Of interest to many friends is the announcement of the engagement and marriage today of Miss Josephine Hoben Lawrence and Charles Frederick Dunaphant, which is made by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Grace Lawrence, of this city, formerly of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The ceremony, which will be attended by only members of the two families, will take place this morning at 11 o'clock in the study of Dr. Louie Newton at the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Miss Lawrence will be given in marriage by her uncle, C. R. Hoben and she will be unattended. She will wear a becoming model of defense blue crepe with matching accessories and her flowers will be gardenias.

After the ceremony the bridal couple will leave for a wedding trip to the mountains of north Georgia. Miss Lawrence is the daughter of Mrs. Lawrence and the late John Lawrence, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Lawrence, of Falmouth, Nova Scotia. On her maternal side she is the granddaughter of Mrs. Annie L. Hoben and the late Charles R. Hoben, of this city. She attended Girls' High school and was graduated from the Druid Hills school.

Mr. Dunaphant, the groom-elect, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dunaphant, and is a graduate of the Druid Hills school and also of Emory University where he received his A. B. degree. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity and is now in the employ of the Southern Construction Company here. His paternal ancestors were natives of Virginia and his maternal forebears were from Alabama.

Miss Kaulbach Fetes Miss Mamie Hallman.

Miss Mamie Hallman, whose marriage to Waters Ross takes place next month, was central figure yesterday at the bridge-luncheon given by Miss Suzanne Kaulbach at her home on Wieuka road.

Mothers of the hostess and honor guest, Mrs. G. C. Kaulbach and Mrs. John Hallman, assisted in entertaining.

The buffet table was centered with a white porcelain bowl filled with a graceful arrangement of purple petunias.

Invited to the affair were Misses Adeline Barnett, Frances Alston, Mary Lewis, Dolly Hewlett, Emma McGinty, Gene Walker, Margaret Winship, Margaret Fearington, Ellen Ross, Lois Kaulbach and Mrs. John Hallman Jr.

For Miss DePew.

Among interesting social affairs yesterday was the luncheon given by Miss Margaret Black at the Druid Hills Golf Club, honoring Miss Hope De Pew, of St. Louis, Missouri.

Miss De Pew is being feted extensively as the guest of Miss Eleanor Clay at her home on Fifteenth street.

Misses Cynthia Searing, Frances T. Pew and Ardis Flick, all of Pennsylvania, Miss Black's house guests, assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Herbert Eastman, whose marriage took place August 18 in Pleasant Lake, Mich., is the former Miss Ernestine Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Jones, of this city.

F. B. I. Agent Gives A. W. V. S. Lecture

Highlighting the series of lectures comprising the preparedness course of the American Women's Voluntary Services, Special Agent Francis R. Hammack, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will speak twice today on "The FBI in National Defense." Both talks will be given in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club—the first at 11 o'clock this morning, the second at 8 o'clock this evening.

Stressing the importance of this particular talk, Mrs. Trammell Scott, head of the Atlanta unit of A. W. V. S., says: "Every woman who has registered with the A. W. V. S. and all who contemplate joining the organization are asked to attend. Mr. Hammack faces a long and heavy schedule and it may not be possible for him to speak to us again soon. We regard the FBI angle in national defense as vital to our better understanding of the problems the women may be called upon to solve."

Of the 1,130 volunteers already being trained in various courses, more than 100 have completed the requirements for full membership and are now entitled to wear the A. W. V. S. pin. Several hundred more will have qualified by the time the preparedness course is concluded. The final lecture in this initial course will be given Thursday.

Miss Dorothy Hazelrig, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Sullivan Hazelrig, whose engagement to George Henry Brussel, of New York and Atlanta, is announced today. The popular young couple's marriage will be an event of September 12.

Betrothed Couple Announce Plans

Of interest are the plans for the marriage of Miss Mary Ida Flemister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Flemister, of Milledgeville, to Fred Waters Jr., of College Park, which will be solemnized Saturday, August 30, at 7 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church in Milledgeville.

Miss Flemister has chosen Miss Lorette Bone Louise Keel, Anne Sallee, of Milledgeville; Hilda Talbert of Newnan, and Stephen Dessean, of Macon.

Eldon Richardson will serve as best man for Mr. Waters. The usher-groomsman will include Walter Edmondson, James Flowers, Sam Young, Edward Richardson, of College Park; Lyman Rogers, Joe Pottle Green, of Atlanta, and John Kidd, of Milledgeville.

The nuptial music will be presented by Miss Marie Waters, sister of the groom-elect, soloist and pianist, and Frank Willingham, organist.

Following the ceremony the parents of the future bride will entertain at a reception at their home on Liberty street, in Milledgeville.

Misses Betty and Floride Allen will entertain the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a dinner party preceding the rehearsal.

La Rocca Grove Meets Wednesday

The Service Club of Mary E. La Rocca Grove, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, meets tomorrow at grill No. 2, Adams Park, for its picnic and business session. A basket luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Lillian West will be hostess for the day.

Chairman Mrs. Kate Thompson will preside over the business meeting held in the afternoon. Junior of the Forest No. 1 will be special guests.

Plan G.S.C.W. Meet.

The Atlanta club of G. S. C. W. will meet Wednesday morning at the home of Miss Mary Jeanne Everett, 765 Virginia avenue. Plans concerning the new members will be discussed.

Mrs. Raleigh Copeland is pictured with her adorable young daughter, Mary Raleigh, who recently celebrated her first birthday anniversary at a party given by her mother. Mrs. Copeland is the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Leavell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Leavell. The baby is named for her mother and father.

Deanna Durbin Movie Banned by Japanese

TOKYO, Aug. 25.—(P)—The home ministry announced today that all American movies and all Japanese stage productions must obtain police permission for showing after September 1. Police already have prohibited showings of Deanna Durbin's picture "First Love" and the western, "Destry Rides Again."

'Malicious Lie' Charge Hurlled In Paving Row

Gloer Hailey Tells County Body He Expects To Find Offender.

Somebody has been spreading some "malicious lies" about Commissioner Gloer Hailey and he's out to find who is doing it, he declared yesterday at a meeting of the county commission which was featured by a controversy over which road shall be paved first—Brown's Mill, or Custer avenue.

The controversy about the two roads was solved by the commissioners voting to pave and resurface them at the same time, but Hailey's quest hadn't ended when the commissioners adjourned.

"Pressure" charged. The situation which aroused Hailey's ire came about when Mrs. Ira Jones, of Brown's Mill road, told him she had heard he and Commissioner Ed Almand had put the pressure on Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the politically powerful public works department, to stop resurfacing Brown's Mill road and to begin paving Custer avenue.

She phoned him this and Hailey took the floor yesterday when Mrs. Jones led a group of 50 or more men and women before the commissioners asking that their road be finished before Custer avenue was started.

"Whoever started that report, I'll find it out," he said. "It's a malicious lie. I am for the Brown's Mill road and think it should be resurfaced and straightened out. I am for all roads."

"That report has the odor of politics. Somebody stooped to a low level, and I know it was not the people who live on Brown's Mill road. But I am going to find out who did it."

Commissioner Charlie Brown said he had heard the report, too. He assured the delegation that Brown's Mill road will be completed.

Dr. Adams told the delegation the public works department is doing the best it can, while Almand said he had insisted Custer avenue be paved now because it was a "No. 1" project when the board drew up its budget last December.

The grand jury has spent much time this month investigating reports of politics in the road program.

Seven and Half Billion Money Bill Is Signed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(P)—President Roosevelt signed into law today legislation providing $7,586,896,948 for the nation's defense effort.

The measure appropriates $6,586,896,948 for new army tanks, anti-tank weapons and ammunition, and for expansion of the naval establishment.

It also appropriates $698,650,000 for the Maritime Commission's ship acquisition and construction program, plus an additional $1,000,000,000 contract authorization for that work.

The War Department will get about $3,400,000,000 for ammunition and special ordnance items to modernize the army and $800,000,000 more for radio equipment, searchlights and a supply of reserve materials for the air corps.

A fund of $2,500,000 was made available to the President for special defense expenditures he saw fit to authorize without further congressional approval.

For the Navy, the measure provided $294,528,500 for dozens of new shore stations, $380,000,000 for material for new ships, $369,000,000 to build up materiel reserves and about $260,000,000 for expansion of the Navy and Marine Corps personnel.

Menuhin Denies Asking Deferral

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 25.—(P)—Yehudi Menuhin, young violinist, was back home from a South American concert tour today, depressed, he said, by an erroneous report that he had appealed to Washington for deferred classification in the draft.

On his return he found that the Los Gatos draft board, on its own motion, had placed him in 3-A classification, reserved for men with dependents. An earlier temporary ruling had placed him in the 1-A group, subject to call. Menuhin, married, with two children, said he never had made any appeal or protest because of the 1-A rating.

Yehudi said his position always has been that "If my country needs me, I shall be glad to serve."

RICH'S

Exercise To Restore A Trim Silhouette

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you relaxed and let yourself go this summer, you're going to get quite a shock when you stand before the triple vision fitting room mirror in your pink silk slip. You will find, to your horror, that nature's girdle has a two-way stretch—and it's no help to your silhouette.

So here we go—they are all easy exercises, but guaranteed to tone up lax and lazy muscles.

On your back on the floor, knees flexed, soles of feet on floor. Now pull up and in with the lower abdominal muscles. Whenever I show anyone these abdominal exercises, they never seem to know what I mean by "pulling up and in." I don't know how to explain it better except that you sort of dig the small of your back into the floor, and the only way to do that is forcibly pull up with the lower abdominal muscles, then pull in with these muscles as you press the backbone into the floor. If you can slip your hand under your back at your waistline, you're not pulling up and in! The whole back should be flat against the hard floor. Hold and release and repeat 10 times.

That is only the preliminary. From there you go on with the exercises, but the idea is to keep your back against the floor as you exercise. Leave one knee bent with foot on floor, but stretch the other leg down. Now raise the leg that is stretched down on the floor, flex the knee and bring it up toward the chest. Stretch leg down on floor again and repeat six times, later 12. Repeat with the other leg.

Progress from these by keeping one knee flexed, foot on floor and raising the leg that is stretched on floor up to right angles, keeping the knee straight. As you raise the leg, pull up with the lower abdominal muscles and keep the back against the floor.

To supplement the exercises listed today, send for the leaflet "Streamline the Midsection." With your request to Miss Kain, in care of The Constitution, send a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope.

Dolman sleeves and sleek hipbands outline the new silhouette for fall fashion smartness so dramatically expressed in this black crepe afternoon dress worn by Deanna Durbin. The smooth, fitted lines of wide hipband, extending from high, gathered bodice to full skirt, is accented by a narrow, bow-trimmed self material belt.

A Picnic Menu Should Be Carefree

By Sally Saver.

Summer is fleeting, and only a few more days of this carefree season remain. Labor Day is the last of the recognized "outdoor" days, and certainly it should be celebrated with a picnic.

A picnic meal can be easy for mother if it's planned a bit in advance and the food consists of only a few substantial dishes which will carry easily, and can be served with a minimum of work and cleaning up afterwards. Here is a main dish, a vegetable-ham salad which is practically a whole balanced meal in itself. For serving eight persons:

Vegetable-Ham Salad.
2 cups cubed cooked potatoes
1 cup cooked peas
2-3 cup cooked cubed ham
1 hard-cooked egg, diced
1/4 cup celery, diced
2-3 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon onion, chopped
1 tablespoon pimiento, chopped
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped

Toss together lightly and moisten with mayonnaise or salad dressing and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Chill thoroughly, and at serving time garnish each portion with a slice of hard-cooked egg, sprinkled with chili sauce or catsup. Paper cups for serving will be found helpful, and if more convenient the salad can be packed in paper cups, chilled in them, and taken in this manner to the picnic spot.

These foods are good travelers, therefore fine for picnicking: Meat and fish loaves, baked beans, cold sliced meat, fried chicken, vegetable, potato and tomato salads; fresh fruits, cookies and hot and cold beverages. A fresh apple pie or fruit tarts are much appreciated by the picnicking family.

Questions about foods, recipes, cooking and serving will be answered by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution or Walnut 6565.

Foods that travel well and are easy to serve find their way into the picnic basket.

MY DAY: London Curator Discusses Our Art

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, Sunday.—I returned here before lunch yesterday and we are having a delightful time. His Royal Highness, the Duke of Kent, with his party, are perfect guests. They enjoy riding and swimming and being in the country. I hope after all their travels and the constant strain of life in England today, this Sunday will be an island of peace in their memory.

Tonight we have to return to Washington and tomorrow promises to be a very busy day, so we have revealed in the leisure of these two days in the country. I wonder if you know a little magazine called "Horizon," a review of literature and art. It is an English publication and it was sent me the other day because of an article entitled "Painting in America," written by John Rothenstein, who is the curator of the Tate Gallery in London.

If you know the Tate Gallery, you will hope that its treasures are safely hidden away during the present period of destruction. You will also be pleased that its curator is so appreciative of the development in art which has come about in the past few years in the United States. In speaking of the "forty-eight states' competition," held in the Corcoran Gallery in Washington about two years ago, he has this to say: "Even the least study there gave utterance, however faltering, to what the best so resoundingly proclaimed; that there was a new spirit abroad in America, a spirit by which artists were also moved and willingly expressed in terms which all could understand. He then names a number of painters he thinks are creating in American tradition and style, and he ends with this interesting observation: "It seems likely that in the arts as in other spheres of creation, the American genius, like the medieval genius, is adapted rather to tremendous collective achievements than to studied expression of the individual spirit."

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "Turn around, so—now pass this little foot down—that's the way to get down from the chair—backward. Now you may climb up again."

Mother: "Baby can climb up into a chair alone but I spend most of my time trying to keep him from falling out on his face?"

Conceal Pounds With the Right Dress

By Lillian Mae.

Do you know you can actually look 10 pounds slimmer if you choose the right dress? Lillian Mae has designed Pattern 4732 especially with this in mind for those important afternoons when you want to look your very best! Notice how fullness over the bosom is achieved by three tucks on each shoulder and gathering above the waist. The tucks are repeated on the new, three-quarter sleeves, and must be accented with buttons to match those on the bodice. Short sleeves are optional. A front-curved waistband gives you trim lines, and the pannelled skirt flares gently. This frock gives you a very slender silhouette, especially if you make it in printed crepe.

Pattern 4732 is available in women's size 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards 39-inch fabric. Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Extra! The new Lillian Mae 1941-1942 Pattern Book brings you extra chic this fall and winter! Pages of easy-to-make patterns for everyone—highlighting glamor gowns, snow-and-sun togs, tailor modes, fashions for fuller figures, complete school wardrobes. You'll find slants on silhouettes, fabrics, and colors—a home defense sewing plan—and free directions for a hat and bag set! Order your copy today! Book 15 cents.

Give Wife Chance to Win Back Love

By DIXIE GEORGE.

Dear Dixie:

I am a married man 47 years old, and I have been married for 25 years. During this time my wife and I have been separated twice, but only for a short period of time. Several years ago I ceased to love her as I should, although I have tried and tried. We seldom have any cross words, but she is a woman who gets nothing out of life, and who is always wishing that she were dead. I am not a drinking man and I never go out at night. These separations were not caused by a woman or man. I make a good salary, and we have everything we need. It just seems that we are not mated.

Two years ago I met a widow, whom I loved on first sight. She is 40 years old and has one daughter about grown. She is well thought of in her home town. We have to meet out, and nobody has ever suspected anything, but some day they will. My wife has never accused me of another woman, so if we are caught, it would be bad. It just seems as if I cannot live without this woman, and I hate to break up my home. I have thought it over in several ways. I cannot seem interested in anything. What must I do—tell my wife? I want to have my freedom and not tell her of this other woman? Seems that life is too short to live as I am living. I have no children, and I am not going to stop seeing this woman. This woman and I have never mentioned a divorce or marriage. None of my friends would suspect me of being in this condition. I am well thought of in my home town. I am suffering, so tell me what to do.

LONESOME FOR ONE. My advice to you, is to have a "fireside" chat with your wife and tell her quite honestly and straight from the shoulder that you are tired of the life you are living and that you want things to be different. Tell her that what you want in companionship and love, and that if she does not give it to you, that you will find it elsewhere. Tell her that she has changed and that she is not the girl you married. Tell her that you are still young and that you want to get some happiness out of life. Tell her anything else which may pop into your head, but do not tell her about this other woman. That is your private affair. I think that you should be fair enough to your wife and to the long years you two have shared together, to give her a chance to win back what she has lost. If, after a certain time, set by yourself, she does not change and does nothing to make your life full and happy, then you would be justified in asking for your freedom.

These little off-the-record meetings you are having with this other woman are rather bad, and it seems too bad for both of you that they have to be held; but if the two of you feel that you have to meet, I do not suppose that anything I may say or suggest would stop you from seeing her. I might add, however, that there might be a good point in continuing to see her, for if your wife finds out about your secret meetings, it might bring her to her senses, and in turn bring you to you the life and happiness which you desire.

Do YOU have any of these 7 SKIN TROUBLES?

Thousands Say New 4-Purpose Face Cream Seems to End Skin Troubles Like Magic!

You can't be too careful of your skin! It's the first thing people see when they look at you. It conveys an instant impression (a good or a bad impression!) to everyone you meet.

Which of the 7 skin troubles listed above is yours? Take a pencil and check the list. But be honest with yourself—look in your mirror and study your skin.

Is it a soft, fresh, young-looking skin? Or is it a little rough and coarse? Are sly signs of age beginning to show? Do you have blackheads... little lines... dry patches... big pores?

Why continue with your present method of skin-care if it fails you where you need it most? Why continue being loyal to a cream that doesn't really help your special skin trouble?

Women by the thousands say Lady Esther Face Cream seems to end skin troubles like magic. And no wonder! It does these 4 essential things for your skin, every time you use it:

(1) It thoroughly cleanses your skin. (2) It softens your skin, relieves dryness. (3) It helps nature refine the pores of your skin. (4) It smooths your skin, prepares it for make-up.

Try it! See with your own eyes how it cleanses and brightens your skin—gives it new freshness and sparkle.

Rain Can't Stop Brooklyn Fans

BROOKLYN, Aug. 25.—(AP)—It takes more than a hard rain to keep the Dodger fans away from Ebbets field.

The rain was coming down steadily at 11 a. m. today, but still some 5,000 fans were lined up at the gates, hoping they would get another chance to see their heroes against the Cardinals.

An hour after the game had been postponed and a double-header announced for tomorrow, the lobby of the marble rotunda was still crowded.

The Pay-Off

Stunts pay off in baseball. The game itself is not sufficient attraction to keep the large crowds coming—unless two or three teams in a league are engaged in a free-for-all fight for a pennant.

This may not be true in the major leagues, where there is much greater drawing power, but there is no question about it in the minors. We have had two pertinent examples of showmanship that paid off rich dividends here in Atlanta this year.

First there was Knoxville appreciation night. Atlanta had been beating the Smokies regularly all season, and the Smokies in turn had taken care of second-place Nashville.

Annually the Atlanta Shrine has a night at Ponce de Leon park, and it was decided to call that night "Knoxville Appreciation Night" in honor of the highly co-operative Smokies.

Well, sir, this night was the last game of a four-game series. It was a Tuesday night, not exactly one of the best nights. Ordinarily 1,000 folks might respond to a game on Tuesday night.

But with the Smokies being honored, the Shrine parading and field events between members of the Atlanta and Knoxville teams scheduled, a crowd of better than 8,000 turned out to enjoy the show.

Sunday, with the Crackers in a terrible slump, a crowd of 5,000 would have been considered good under normal circumstances. But with the "Battle of the Bucks and the Bonds" arranged as a colorful added attraction, more than 13,000 fans flocked to Ponce de Leon park and had a big time.

The pain of a double defeat was assuaged for Joe Engel by a $3,000 check—Chattanooga's share of the proceeds.

Vitamins and Stunts Vitamin B-1 tablets, together with more added attractions, may be all the rage in baseball in the future.

The St. Louis Cardinals, in spite of staggering player losses, have remained in the thick of the National League pennant fight. At various times they have not had the services of such players as Johnny Mize, Jimmy Brown, Johnny Hopp, Terry Moore, Walker Cooper, Mort Cooper and others. Slugging Enos Slaughter is out for the season due to a broken collar bone.

But the Cards still have their vitamin capsules. And they have enough left over to supply Houston, New Orleans, Columbus, et al. They're all doing well. Houston is leading the Texas League by a wide margin—18½ games, to be exact; Columbus tops the American Association by 8½ games, and New Orleans, currently playing here, is a cinch to finish third and a threat to win in the Shaugnessy play-offs of the Southern League.

Apparently the Birmingham Barons did not get the same brand of vitamin capsules as the Cardinals use. For the Barons cannot hope to finish better than fifth, the spot they currently occupy.

Those Atlanta Crackers, who proved Sunday they are men and not mice and that a good offense is one way to win defense bonds, are pretty lucky to have such a good lead without using vitamin tablets, aren't they?

Oh, Yes, They Do So they never come back, huh? At 39 years of age Bob Jones has beaten one of the better pros, Henry Picard, the Candy Kid, of Hershey, Pa., in singles play and led a team of challengers to the first victory over Captain Walter Hagen's Ryder Cupmen.

Jones had to stage a stirring comeback to beat Picard and provide the inspiration for his team to win the match. According to all the unwritten rules, Jones should have succumbed to pressure. Four down at the end of nine holes—and not tournament tough—he should have been easy pickings.

I don't know but that the triumph over Picard, which led to the victory for his team, is one of Bob Jones' greatest single achievements in an unparalleled career. He can never do anything to match his grand slam year, of course, but when a man comes out of 10 years of virtual retirement and beats a seasoned pro in competition, he has done something.

It just goes to show that Bob Jones, who has the shots to match any player in the game, can still turn on the heat on occasions.

The long tournaments would get him. The old legs aren't what they used to be. It takes stamina to stick with the tournament-tough young men and battle them stroke for stroke under a blazing sun through the "sudden death" rounds on to the grueling, killing 36-hole finals.

It's not in the cards for Bob Jones to win a tournament, perhaps, but it sure is a thrill to read about him knocking off a good golfer again. Yes, sir.

Seay Is Favored Here Sunday After Sensational Daytona Win

Lloyd Seay's sensational victory in the 160-mile stock car race at Daytona Beach, Fla., Sunday establishes him as the favorite in the 100-mile Labor Day stock car classic at Lakewood park.

Persistence paid off for Seay in the Florida meet. The last time he raced he overturned while pressing Roy Hall, of Atlanta, for the lead and finally finished fourth.

Sunday Seay led from start to finish, beating out Harley Taylor, of Atlanta, who finished third. Taylor also is entered in the Lakewood Labor Day event.

In averaging almost 80 miles an hour to win the 160-mile beach-road grind at Daytona, Seay maintained his win-at-any-cost reputation.

It's an odd thing, however, that, while he has a national reputation on other tracks, he hasn't won any important races here.

Seay's gunning for first place on Labor Day, however, and racing fans are looking forward to a three-cornered battle, involving Seay, Hall and Taylor.

Most of the south's best-known drivers will compete for glory and the cash awards at Mike Benton's Palace of motor madness.

Yates, Barnes Shoot 76 in U. S. Amateur

Skip Alexander's 67 Tops Field in 1st Round of Qualifying.

By BILL BONI.

OMAHA, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A pair of overlooked longshots whose past performances have stopped just short of gaining them real national recognition took full charge today in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the United States Golf Association's forty-fifth amateur championship.

Stewart M. (Skip) Alexander, a golfer of considerable repute in his native North Carolina, set a competitive course record for the revamped Omaha Field club with a five-under-par 67 that paced the 145 contenders for the title won last year by Dick Chapman. On his heels with a 68 came red-headed Johnny Burke, now playing out of Chicago after an eastern career that included victory in the 1938 intercollegiate.

Alexander is 23, Burke 24. Both are fine iron players, and it was iron play that sent them ahead of such stars as Chapman, Bud Ward, Ray Billows, the Field club's own Johnny Goodman and Texas Harry Todd by margins from five to nine strokes.

OTHER DARK HORSES. In fact, even the next three places went to players who hadn't been rated too highly in the advance calculations.

Otto Greiner, fresh out of the University of Baltimore; Ellsworth Vines, the lanky Californian who has switched from championship tennis to golf, and Ted Bishop, of Boston, New England champion, were deadlocked at 72, even par. Georgia's entries were led by Private Charlie Yates and Tommy Barnes, of Atlanta, who finished with 76's.

Arnold Blum, of Macon, had a 79, while Gene Dahlbender tallied 80. Billy Cate Jr., also of Atlanta, scored an 82.

Ward was low scorer among the "dope sheet" hot shots, with a 71, which bracketed him with Goodman and Glenn Oatman, who used to coach the University of Kansas golf team when he still was a student there. At 74 came Chapman and one of his playing partners, Brazilian Mario Gonzales; Bob Cochran, of St. Louis; Edwin McClure, of Shreveport, La., and Rodney Bliss, another Omaha hopeful.

Ward who won the title at North Shore in 1939, and Goodman, winner at Portland, Ore., in 1937, were low among the former champions in the field, followed by Chapman, Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, who won in 1936 and had 78 today, and Chick Evans, the veteran Chicagoan, who won in 1916 and 1920, but practically lost all chance of getting one of the 64 match-play places by posting an 84.

But the story of the day was the fine joint performance of Alexander, current North-South champion, and Burke.

Alexander started with a birdie on the first hole, and never slackened off on the pressure. What's more, only one of his birdie putts was more than 10 feet, and he was a 20-footer on the third for the rest, his iron shots put him within four feet of the flag on the first, less than a foot on the fourth, five feet for a deuce on the eighth, 10 feet on the 13th and eight feet on the 15th.

Burke had finished hours ahead of him, and when "Skip" had overshot the green on the 18th it appeared he'd get no better than a tie for the lead. But he chipped back to the first hole and sank the putt for his one-shot margin.

WARD SLOWS DOWN. Ward played 10 successive holes in par, sank a 12-foot putt at No. 11 for his lone birdie, then lost stroke and seven others, and his tee shots got him into trouble.

Goodman, who took three putts on the first hole, came back with birdies on the third and eighth to hit the turn in 35, one under par. But coming back he three-putted once, left himself short once and fired a 20-footer on the 18th green for a 38 and his 73.

Chapman also was out in 35, with a deuce on the 150-yard eighth, where his tee shot stopped a foot from the cup. Gonzales might have had a 72 but for a slice on his second shot at the fourth hole, which dog-legged to the right. Gonzales tried to cut the corner but was out of bounds.

In the middle and upper 70's were Ray Billows, twice a finalist; Art Doering, of Chicago; Morelan and seven others at 75; Todd, Private Charlie Yates, of Atlanta; Pat Abbott, of Los Angeles, and 18 others at 76; Frank Stranahan, 18-year-old, trans - Mississippi champion, 77; Duff McCullough, of Philadelphia, runner-up to Chapman in 1940; and Wilford Wehrle, of Chicago, 1940 semi-finalist, at 80.

With 69 players with scores of 78 or better, it appeared 155 or 156 would be the limit for the low 64 who go into match play after tomorrow's round.

Gabby Greenberg Becomes a Papa

Gordon (Gabby) Greenberg, stellar guard on the J. P. C. basketball team for the past several years, was all smiles yesterday as he dropped around for one of his infrequent visits. A bit early for basketball, Greenberg didn't have to be prompted to state that the object of his visit was to announce that he had become a father.

A hunky son, born Sunday, made a threesome of the Greenberg family. Mother, the former Lee Bierman, and son are receiving visitors at the Georgia Baptist hospital.

Cecil Moon Added To Tech High Staff

G. M. A. Replaces Monroe Aggies as Smithie Opponent for September 19 Contest.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

If only they can find some football players who are as hustling and capable as their coaching staff, those Tech High Smithies should come up through the gloom with a standout football eleven this fall.

Cecil (Harvest) Moon, star Oglethorpe halfback in the late twenties and early thirties, has been added to the coaching staff and will tutor the backfield beginning immediately, it was announced yesterday by W. O. Cheney, principal of the Ninth street institution.

Moon, who will assist Head Coach Allen Shi and his assistants, Swede Phillips and Hub Dawis, has enjoyed marked success as head football mentor at Jesup High for the past three years. The ex-Stormy Petrel made the Jesup eleven such a power in state grid circles that on October 2 this year they have staged a game in Atlanta against Boys' High's defending Southern and G. I. A. champions.

AGGIES WITHDRAW. Along with the news that Moon has been added to the Smithies' coaching staff came the announcement that Tech High will play Coach Bud Harris' G. M. A. Cadets on September 19 instead of the formerly scheduled Monroe Aggies, who have withdrawn.

Moon will have a tough assignment on his hands to get the Smithie backfield, depleted by graduation, in shape for the opener with Marist on September 12. Jack Couch, recently elected captain with veteran End Joe Nixon, is a good passer, kicker and a speed merchant, and Marcus McWhorter shows much promise as a pass singer, but replacing ace ball-toter Jack Pounds, alone, will be a huge job.

Charlie Woodward, at fullback, and Harvey Prater, at blocking back, have the most to do. The backfield posts right now, and Chink White, George Vlass, Grady Boles and Don King have been showing up well, but all in all a rather drab outlook faces the green Smithie eleven.

PAIR OF GOOD ENDS. Joe Nixon and Lamar West give the Blacksmiths a pair of good flankers, and they are backed by Jack Greer and Ray Cheney, but even with some 75 youngsters out for practice Allen Shi and his cohorts are finding it difficult to put a capable line on the field. Dan Crawford, a converted guard, and Mike Jones, Oklahoma transfer who started out as a back, are battling for the first string center berth, and both look good. Veteran Fred King will play at one guard, but the other guard and the tackle positions are wide open with no standouts in sight.

Among the guards Phil Meyer, Jim Cullen and John Bond look best. Bub Mullins, promoted from the B squad, and Coley Whitaker appear to be the best of a light tackle crop.

DUBLIN AT NIGHT.

DUBLIN, Ga., Aug. 25.—(AP)—An engineer is scheduled to survey the Dublin High school athletic field this week for a projected flood lighting system for night football games this season, Coach Bonnell Jarrard said.

Atlanta Rally Falls Short in Ninth Session

By JACK TROY.

Constitution Sports Editor.

The Pelicans did their best, but the Crackers finally out-fumbled the visitors from New Orleans last night and went one down in the series, 7 to 6. In the early stages of the game the Crackers scored four runs without a Cracker being credited with a run batted in. Buddy Bates batted one in in the fifth.

Floyd Stromme, ex-Pel, didn't give up a run until the fifth, Henry Nowak coming through with a pinch double to score two mates. Stromme, who has been out of action most of the time since he has been with Atlanta, due to an ankle injury, weakened in the eighth, and before Ed Nowak could find himself the Pelicans had scored four runs and taken the lead.

COFFMAN WINNER. They won the game on a walk and a double in the ninth. A Cracker rally fell one short of a tie and Dick Coffman, entering the game in a relief role in the seventh, was the winning pitcher. Ed Nowak, who pitched only one complete inning, was the loser.

The hitting was even, with 11 on both sides. Buddy Bates got four for as many official trips to top the Crackers, while Winsett, with three, led the winners.

With only one error to the visitors' four, the Crackers didn't match the Pelicans, but the one they made was costly, indeed.

The second game of the series is scheduled tonight at 8:15 with Bob Chipman scheduled to face either Jurisich or Beazley.

There was evidence in the opening game of the Pel series that the Crackers are still in the throes of a persistent slump.

The Crackers got three hits and a base on balls but only one run to open the scoring in the first inning. After Mailho and Gerlach singled, Glock hit into a double play. Mailho scored, Burge walked and was thrown out by Winsett, when he tried to go to third on Marshall's single to right.

THREE IN THIRD. There were three more Cracker runs, and one not batted in, in the third inning. Mailho walked and went to third on Bates' single with one out. Glock grounded to Nowak, who threw wild into center field. Mailho scored and when Wyrostek made a wild throw, Glock hit into a double play. Mailho scored, Burge walked and was thrown out by Winsett, when he tried to go to third on Marshall's single to right.

The Crackers finally batted in a run in the fourth. Gerlach bunted and beat it out. Stromme also bunted and went safe. Bolling made a wild throw to first and Gerlach went to third. Mailho lined to Bolling, who doubled Stromme off first. But Bates singled, scoring Gerlach.

Henry Nowak struck a blow in his own behalf in the fifth after Richards and Wyrostek, who singled, were still on base with two out. Nowak doubled off the signs. Scoring both runners.

The Pelicans belted Stromme out of the box and went ahead at E. Nowak's expense in the eighth. Ankenman, Bolling and Winsett got successive singles. Ankenman scored. That was all for Stromme.

E. Nowak came in and Triplett was safe on Gerlach's error. Rolling scoring. Richards' grounder took a high hop over Ryan's head and Winsett and Triplett scored home, giving the Pels the lead for the first time.

Coffey pitched the ninth inning and the Pels scored again. Ankenman singled and scored from first on Winsett's long double.

The Crackers got a good rally started in the ninth when Bates and Glock hit hard singles. But Burge fouled out to Ankenman, and after Bates scored on Marshall's infield out, Ryan fanned, leaving Glock on base with the tying run.

Hertz further said that the team is prepared to play this season, but that he had not decided whether it is feasible to operate the club in the American League.

Kimbrough Made Yankee Manager

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(INS)—Douglas Hertz, wealthy backer of the New York Yankees of the American professional football team, today announced he had discharged Jack McBride as manager of the team and had selected John Kimbrough, All-America back at Texas A. & M. last season, to run the club for him.

Hertz further said that the team is prepared to play this season, but that he had not decided whether it is feasible to operate the club in the American League.

McWhorter and Farmer Deny Peonage Charge Made in Chicago.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 25. (AP)—Federal Judge Bascom C. Deaver today withheld a decision on the request of federal authorities for removal of Hamilton McWhorter, former president of the Georgia senate, and W. T. Cunningham to face charges of conspiracy to "hold Negroes in condition of peonage and slavery."

McWhorter, Lexington lawyer, and Cunningham, Oglethorpe county planter, were indicted by a grand jury in Chicago several months ago.

The Chicago district attorney's office said the indictment charged that "for many years Cunningham had enslaved Negroes on his plantation, inducing them to come to work on his premises by promising by getting them out of jail or of the chain gang. Once on the plantations, the Negroes were no longer free. They received no Decision Later. After listening to arguments from government counsel and attorneys for McWhorter and Cunningham, Judge Deaver said he would rule on the removal request "in a few days." He said his decision would be made in Macon after he has thoroughly studied testimony and arguments.

The Chicago indictment was returned after three Negroes formerly employed on Cunningham's farm had successfully fought extradition to Oglethorpe county where they are under indictment in the case of burglary.

They were identified as Ovis and Decker.

Wood and Solomon McCannon.

Defense attorneys contended there was no evidence McWhorter and Cunningham conspired to bring the Negroes into peonage. McWhorter testified he served as a legal advisor to the Oglethorpe county sheriff and that the latter asked him in preparing a requisition for extradition which was presented to former Governor E. D. Rivers, who asked the Illinois governor for return of the Negroes.

When the Negroes resorted to habeas corpus proceedings to keep them from being sent to the penitentiary, they went to Chicago to represent the county in the hearing. He said he was asked to go there

The former senate president testified and represented Cunningham a number of times in legal matters and on other occasions had represented opponents of Cunningham in court.

Several Ogleshorpe county residents were brought to the stand to support Cunningham's testimony that he had never testified against him on his plantation in servitude.

Seeks Their Return.

Government counsel, headed by Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant to the attorney general, contended the two men should be his testimony several times because of illness. He was represented today by Abit Nix, of Athens, and Cunningham was represented by Wallace Miller, of Macon.

McWhorter, suffering from a heart ailment, was forced to halt

Alabama Reports 25 Polio Cases

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 25. (AP)—Twenty-five new poliomyelitis cases and one death from the disease were reported today to the Alabama Health Department, making 470 diagnosed in Alabama since January 1.

The death occurred in Fayette County. It was the 37th of the current outbreak, compared to 40 during the state's worst previous epidemic in 1936.

TENNESSEE LISTS
TOTAL OF 168 CASES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 25.—(P)—The State Health Department said today there were 168 cases of infantile paralysis in Tennessee, including seven new cases reported over the week end.

Although there was no apparent widespread spread of the disease in affected areas, a noticeable leveling off was seen in metropolitan areas. No new cases were reported in Knoxville, Chattanooga or Memphis.

Two new cases were reported in Nashville vicinity, and city and county health authorities advised parents against taking children out in any gathering.

Dr. Brinkley Reported In Critical Condition

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 25.—(INS).—Dr. John R. Brinkley, radio "goat gland" expert and onetime candidate for Governor of Missouri, was reported in critical condition tonight at a Kansas City hospital which he entered Saturday.

Dr. Brinkley, 56, whose claims of cures through a "goat gland" treatment made him known throughout the southwest, was suffering from diabetes and a blood clot condition which may necessitate amputation of his left leg.

DeKalb Group Will Sponsor Horse Show

Event Set October 10-11 Will Be Part of Harvest Festival.

Plans for a spectacular horse show, to be sponsored by the DeKalb county Chamber of Agriculture and Commerce and dedication of the new $50,000 fair ground and recreation center, all in connection with DeKalb's Harvest Festival, October 9, 10, 11, were presented to 100 members of the club at a meeting last night, A. M. Chandler, president, reported.

Some 150 horses, of all classes, will be exhibited on Friday and Saturday, October 10-11, in four performances.

The 40-acre fair ground, built with DeKalb county and WPA funds, will be dedicated formally at Panthersville, and will later be used as a recreation center for 4-H and Future Farmers of America groups.

Other highlights of the show will be exhibition of the A. Farnell Blair and Judy King stables, a dinner-dance at East Lake Country club, and awarding of $1,500 in cash prizes, Chandler said.

Horses from Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, and North Carolina will be shown. Committee for the horse show includes: Fred Cannon, general chairman; A. Farnell Blair, entries; Nell Cheatham, trophies; A. M. Chandler, entertainment; W. W. Lively, judges; Claud Blount, finance; George Woods, fair chairman; and J. H. Stokes.

Revolving Stool

Is Made by Barber

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 25.—(AP) Barber Ben T. Griner, worn out at the end of the day's work, conceived the idea of a revolving stool upon which he could sit while serving customers.

With the aid of a draftsman friend, he rigged up an adjustable, rotating stool, attached to the barber chair by a steel band. He is having it patented and plans to produce in quantity when materials now on the priority list for defense orders, become available.

FIRST BALE IN MONROE.

FORSYTH, Ga., Aug. 25.—The first bale of the 1941 crop of cotton in Monroe county was ginned by J. T. Hill and came from the farm of Frank L. Roquemore near Forsyth. The bale weighed 385 pounds and was sold for 20c a pound.

Drug Company Is Picketed Here

For the second time within a month, pickets yesterday were patrolling the front of the office and warehouse of the Lamar-Rankin Company, wholesale druggists, 75 Houston street.

About five weeks ago, 18 men employed by the company to fill orders, struck following a wage controversy with officials of the company. They returned to work the following day, however. Yesterday afternoon the order fillers again struck, stating no satisfactory settlement of the wage controversy had been made.

R. J. Taylor Jr., an official of the company, and Clarence Calhoun, attorney for the company, yesterday conferred with Harry Bolch, president of the Atlanta Retail Clerks' Union, and W. A. Cetti, a representative of the American Federation of Labor, but no agreement was reached, it was said after the conference.

Funeral Home Employee Dies at Milledgeville

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 25. Warren Welch, 57, employee of Joe Moore's funeral home here for 18 years, died yesterday after an illness of several months and funeral services were held today in Moore's chapel, the Rev. J. M. Tressi and Joseph A. Moore officiating. Interment was in the city cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Glen Welch, of Atlanta; three daughters, Mrs. G. W. Nash, of Milledgeville; Mrs. Roby Robinson, of Lenox; Mrs. Van K. Worthing, of Griffin.

Mr. Welch moved to Milledgeville from Linton and he was a deacon in the First Baptist church.

Rev. P. T. Barth Dies in Home Of His Birth

Prominent Minister Was Life-Long Resident of Atlanta.

The Rev. Paul T. Barth, 68, of 892 Berne street, S. E., a life-long resident of Atlanta and prominent minister, died last night at the home in which he was born and reared, "Hezibah Home."

He was educated in the public schools of this city, and joined the ministry at the age of 18 as pastor of the Rex (Ga.) Christian church, and in 1907 was one of the founders of the Pentecostal church of Atlanta.

One of the pioneers in Christian work in Atlanta, he helped organize the Apostolic Tabernacle on Washington street and remained its pastor until death.

Surviving are his wife, one brother, Raimund Barth; one nephew, Walter Barth, and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Alice Barth and Mrs. Elizabeth Barth.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Apostolic Tabernacle, with the Rev. T. J. Middlebrooks and the Rev. L. G. Gilmore officiating. Burial will be in Decatur cemetery, with Sam R. Greenberg in charge.

Kent Reviews Shipping, Dines At White House

Wartime Precision Marks Program for Royal Visitor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(INS)—Climaxing a whirlwind tour of America's far-flung naval works in the Norfolk, Va., tide-water area, the Duke of Kent returned here this evening and was guest of honor at a White House dinner.

Major General Edwin M. Watson, a secretary of the President, greeted the royal visitor at the Army's Bolling Field on his return. Army and Navy officers tendered the Duke a reception at the airport and then he was rushed by automobile to the White House.

Grim, wartime precision marked the day's program for the royal visitor. The Duke, 39, dressed in the blue-trimmed khaki uniform of the Royal Air Force, came to Washington earlier in the day with President Roosevelt from Hyde Park.

After breakfasting with the chief executive aboard the presidential special train at Union station, the Duke motored to the Navy's Anacostia air field, boarded a Navy transport plane, and was landed at the Norfolk naval base at 11 o'clock, to be greeted by Rear Admiral Manley H. Simons, commandant of the Fifth Naval district.

After standing stiffly at salute as a Marine band played God Save the King, the Duke inspected the Marine guard of honor and left the naval base through a mile-long line of sailors with fixed bayonets, held at present arms.

He was escorted to the Norfolk Navy yard, where he inspected British repair operations, went aboard two warships in Hampton Roads, and later lunched with Rear Admiral Felix X. Gyagax, commandant of the yard.

U. S. To Outline '42 Food Schedule

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department today called regional conferences to consider plans to assure the production of sufficient food in 1942 both for the United States and "for countries resisting aggression."

Secretary Wickard plans to attend each of the conferences, which will last two days. Arrangements have been made for representatives from all the 48 states to attend.

Among the places and dates where the conferences will be held and the states to participate are: Memphis, Tenn., September 29 and 30—Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Wireless Station Destroyed by RAF

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Three RAF Spitfire fighters attacked a wireless station near Cherbourg tonight with machinegun and cannon fire and the air ministry said they caused a violent explosion which enveloped the station in white smoke.

The planes were reported to have dived within 400 feet of the ground to silence a German machinegun.

German daylight raiders made a few attacks at the British east coast but an official statement said they caused little damage.

British bombers were heard roaring over the Strait of Dover late tonight. A few minutes later the French coast from Dunkerque to Boulogne was lit by exploding "flaming onion" anti-aircraft shells, tracer bullets and the searchlights of German ground defenses.

Marlene Dietrich Hurt In Fall on Movie Set

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Actress Marlene Dietrich, carrying a seven-month-old baby on a movie set today, tripped on a toy fire engine and fell.

To protect the baby, she twisted in the fall in such a way that she sprained her back and fractured an ankle. Dr. Stanley W. Imerman said it would be necessary to keep the ankle in a cast at least four weeks.

Robert L. York Dies Here After Brief Illness

Atlanta Was Proprietor of Recreation Parlor.

Robert L. York, 73, proprietor of York's Recreation Parlor at 89 Pryor street, N. E., died last night at a private hospital following a short illness. He resided at 2881 Peachtree road.

A native of Whitfield county, he attended the public schools of Dalton, Ga., and moved to Atlanta 50 years ago. He was a machinist with the W. & A. railway for 25 years.

He entered the restaurant business 25 years ago and operated the York's Recreation Parlor until his death. He was also a member of the Atlanta Lodge of Elks.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Paul H. Butler, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. E. Butler, of Tampa, Fla.; one son, Robert L. York, of Atlanta; and two sisters, Mrs. Will York, of Dalton, Ga., and Mrs. Will Calhoun, of Tunnell Hill, Ga.; one brother, Monroe York, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill, with the Rev. C. A. Hall officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Earl M. Smith, 49, Of Covington, Dies

Earl M. Smith, 49, assistant postmaster at Covington, Ga., died Sunday at the home of his brother, A. L. Smith, on Melrose drive.

Smith had been an employee of the Covington office for 25 years and was state vice president of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks.

Surviving besides his brother are his wife, three other brothers, K. R. Smith, of Thompson; Dr. H. R. Smith, of Stillwater, Okla., and E. R. Smith, of New York city, and three sisters, Mrs. J. H. Collins, Thompson; Mrs. W. K. Whipple, Perry, Ga., and Dr. Willie White Smith, of Wilmington, Del.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence in Covington, and burial will be in Covington cemetery.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our wife and mother, Mrs. D. L. Osborn, who passed away 11 years ago today, August 26, 1930. If ever a love existed, If ever a soul filled its mission on earth, That darling mother, D. L. OSBORN AND DAUGHTERS.
